TWO WOMEN AND TEN MEN HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Two Machines Collide and Another Upsets in Early Morning in the West End.

NONE FATALLY INJURED

Firemen Who Saw Forest Park Accident Say Machine Turned Over Three Times.

Ten men and two women were injured in two automobile accidents in the West End early today.

In the first accident, at Washington boulevard and Taylor avenue, at 1:05 a. m., two machines collided and both turned over. One was a service car being driven south on Taylor avenue by Arthur H. Sheldon of 3735 Kossuth avenue. His passengers were Leo Maginn, a lawyer, of 330 North Newstead avenue, and James O'Neil of 4507 Lindell boulevard. O'Neil's right thigh and collar bone were fractured. He is at St. John's Hospital. Maginn's scalp was cut and Sheldon's back was wrenched.

In the other machine, driven west on Washington boulevard, by John Smith of 1945 North Market street, were Leo Grady, an usher, of 6416 Ridge avenue; Paul Hacking, an usher, of 2723 North Spring avenue, and Charles Wiggins, a stage hand, of 721A Walton avenue. They were on their way home from the American Theater.

Two in Westbound Auto Hurt.

Grady's right arm was fractured and his right knee bruised. He is at St. John's Hospital. Hacking's back was sprained and his scalp cut.

Occupants of both machines were thrown to the street. Smith's only injury was a bruise on his right hand. He was arrested on a charge of felonious wounding. Sheldon also was arrested, charged with careless driving. Sheldon told the police he was driving 10 miles an hour and that Smith was going about 35 miles an hour. Smith denied this. He said his speed was about 18 miles an hour.

James O'Neil, better known as "Jimmie" to a large circle of admirers, was known as a spectacular automobile speeder in St. Louis about 10 years ago. He and his sister, Mrs. Eleanor O'Neil Nolker, now dead, inherited $1,000,000 from their father, the late Peter A. O'Neil, who ran a hotel at the old Union Depot and had large holdings of Washington avenue property.

In the second accident a seven-passenger rental car owned by John Sloane of 5569 St. Louis avenue and driven by Thomas Harris of 505 North Spring avenue, a chauffeur, turned over on Clayton road near Central avenue at the southwest corner of Forest Park.

The machine was coming into the city from the county and was running east on the Clayton road at 3:30 a. m. When Harris tried to turn northeast into the park the automobile skidded south across the Clayton road and capsized when it struck a curb in front of No. 52 engine house.

Firemen Rescue Two Men.

Samuel F. Thompson of the Hamilton Hotel, a salesman, and Barney Berrie of 5061 Von Versen avenue, were pinned under the machine. Firemen extricated them. Thompson was unconscious. He was cut on the head and body and internally injured. Berrie also was cut and internally hurt. Harris, the driver, was cut on the head face and hands.

The women passengers were Agnes Powell of 3330 Washington avenue and Mrs. Vera Wuebling of 505 North Spring avenue. Both were cut and three of Miss Powell's ribs were fractured. All were taken to the city hospital.

Harris told policemen a stiff knuckle joint on the steering gear caused the accident.

Harris and the women were removed from the city hospital to their homes today. Thompson told a Post-Dispatch reporter the members of the party had spent several hours at Campbell's Forest Home, a St. Louis County resort, and were returning from there when the accident occurred.

Law School Registar Refuses to Tell Judge Who Drove His Auto and Parked It Facing Wrong Way.

John B. Reno of 310 Skinker road, registrar of the St. Louis University Law School, 3642 Lindell boulevard, was arrested last night for parking his automobile in front of the school facing west, when it should have faced east, being on the south side.

When he appeared in police court this morning Judge Hogan asked:

"Who drove the car there?"

"I don't know," Reno answered.

"It's your car, isn't it?" the Judge inquired.

"Yes—but I don't see that I am forced to give this court evidence as to who drove it."

"O, all right," said the Judge, as he picked up his pen and wrote on his docket. "Five dollars, Mr. Reno."

Reno paid fine and costs pending an appeal.

Results of today's games in the National League will not settle the pennant scramble unless Philadelphia loses two games to Boston and the Superbas beat the Giants. Then the standing will be:

If Philadelphia breaks even, the race will not be over until the conclusion of Wednesday's games, and not then unless Brooklyn wins. However, Brooklyn can, by winning three games from the Giants, assure itself of at worst a tie, even though Philadelphia takes four straight from Boston.

Philadelphia can lose one to Boston and still win if Brooklyn loses two out of three to New York.

MAN FALLS IN BLOODLESS DUEL

Becomes Unconscious Although Only Blank Cartridges Are Used.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 3.—As a result of a bloodless duel between Walter Jonke, 22, and John Honick, 23, the death of Honick is expected by physicians, who are puzzled by the strange case. Jonke and Honick had been at odds for several months. Finally they decided to settle the feud with pistols at 30 paces. Friends of the men, however, prevailed upon the seconds to substitute blank cartridges in the weapons.

The two principals with their seconds entered an alley in the rear of South Twenty-ninth street and took their places. At the word both men began firing. Suddenly Honick fell. Thinking that a ball cartridge might have been left in Jonke's weapon by oversight, one of the seconds hurriedly sought a physician. Examination developed the fact that Honick was unconscious but unscathed. His condition is said to be critical.

NATURAL GAS FOR BELLEVILLE

Consumers Will Get It Latter Part of This Week.

The St. Clair County Gas and Electric Co. yesterday notified consumers that natural gas would flow through Belleville mains the latter part of this week. Manager Parmelee yesterday said that burners being used for manufactured gas will not be applicable, and added that new ones will be installed, at the consumer's expense. A minimum rate of 75 cents for 1000 cubic feet has been fixed. The old rate was $1.25.

"Terrible Tank" Picture a Terrible Fake.

In a number of Eastern papers last Friday and Saturday there was printed a picture purporting to be a reproduction of an actual photograph of the famous British "tank," the armored car on caterpillar wheels which has been mentioned recently in dispatches from France. This picture is appearing Tuesday in newspapers of the Middle West, particularly the St. Louis Star, which reprints the illustration under the caption "First Picture Published Here of 'Terrible Tank'" with the assertion that it is an "authentic photograph of the new British engine of destruction."

Some of the Eastern papers—notably the Boston Post—credited the picture to the Evening Mail of Halifax, Nova Scotia, the first to print it anywhere. A telegram sent by the Post-Dispatch on Monday, to the editor of the Mail, asked for the origin and history of the illustration. The following reply by wire was received:

"Picture of British tank printed in Mail was artist's conception, not a photograph. W. R. McCurdy, Editor Mail."

VEILED PROPHET TO VISIT ST. LOUIS FOR 39TH TIME TONIGHT

Parade in Streets of Twenty-Two Shakspearian Floats to Be Followed by Ball.

MANY VISITORS IN CITY

Here for Ceremonies From Many Points Within a Radius of 150 Miles.

The thirty-ninth annual parade and ball of the Veiled Prophet, to take place tonight, brought visitors to St. Louis today from nearly all points within 150 miles, reached by steam or electric railroads and from a number of places more distant.

The "fair and warmer" prediction made for tonight by the Weather Bureau indicates that the right sort of weather will prevail. It is a singular fact that the first Tuesday night in October is very seldom anything but fair in St Louis. Only twice in the 38 years of the Prophet's visits has it been necessary to postpone the parade because of rain. In case of a postponement, the parade is given on the next fair night. The ball in the Coliseum takes place regardless of weather conditions.

The Veiled Prophet pageant, leaving the starting point at Twenty-first and Walnut streets at 6:45 this evening, will move through the principal streets between Fourth street and Grand avenue, and will make its entrance to the Coliseum at about 10 o'clock. The parade, in recent years, has made a record for promptness.

22 Shakspearean Floats.

The 22 floats will represent scenes from Shakspeare's plays, all except the first, which belongs to the Veiled Prophet himself.

Following the Prophet's float will come the title float, which will present the Shakspearean theme. Shakspeare, high on the pedestal of fame, will review his greatest characters—Falstaff, Hamlet, King Lear, Macbeth, Caesar, Richard and the rest. Then will come Proteus of "The Two Gentlemen of Verona," lamenting man's one chief error, inconstancy; Caesar, falling before the assassins in the Senate-House; the wrestling match in "As You Like It;" Cordelia bending over her stricken father, King Lear; Imogen of Cymbeline in the cave of Belarius; Coriolanus, in the Forum, making his plea for the consulship; the duel in "Twelfth Night;" the two Dromios, in the "Comedy of Errors;" Queen Margaret's capture, in "Henry VI;" Falstaff at the Boar's-head Tavern.

Other subjects will be Cleopatra, on her wonderful barge, going to meet Antony; the wooing of Cressida, by Troilus; Perdita's graceful welcome, in "The Winter's Tale;" Macbeth and the three witches; the balcony scene in "Romeo and Juliet;" Adrial, in "The Tempest;" Ophelia and Laertes, in "Hamlet;" the nine worthies, in "Love's Labor Lost;" Dogberry's ridiculous court, in "Much Ado About Nothing," and Titania and Bottom in "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Second Tercentenary Observance.

This is the year of the Shakspeare tercentenary, the three hundredth anniversary of Shakspeare's death. The parade will be St. Louis' second act of observance of this tercentenary, the first having been the "As You Like It" performance in Forest Park last June.

At the ball, in the interval before the Prophet and his escort arrive, Miss Lydia Locke of the London Opera Company, will sing, and Miss Swain of the Metropolitan Opera Company will dance, assisted by a ballet of 16 girls. There will be 12 musical, solo dance and ballet numbers, the last followed by the entry of the queen.

The name of the queen is a carefully guarded secret. She will be selected by the Prophet after his entrance and the procession of his courtiers, and a dance program of 16 numbers will follow.

Vehicle regulations have been issued for the ball, setting apart three one-way traffic street, from 7 p. m. until 2 a. m., as follows: Leffingwell avenue (Twenty-eighth street) from Chestnut to Washington, for northbound traffic only; Washington avenue, from Leffingwell to Twentieth, for eastbound traffic only; Locust street from Leonard avenue to Jefferson avenue for eastbound traffic only.

Three Streets to Be Closed.

From 7 until 2, Washington avenue from Garrison avenue to Leffingell, Beaumont (Twenty-seventh street) from Locust to Washington, and Locust street from Jefferson to Leffingwell will be closed to all traffic.

Drivers of vehicles which are not going to the Coliseum are asked, for tonight, to use Chestnut street and Lawton avenue, avoiding Locust and Pine streets. Those going to the Coliseum are asked to follow prescribed routes, all of which lead to Washington and Leffingwell avenues and thence east to the Coliseum.

MILK WAR IN NEW YORK HAS SPREAD THROUGHOUT STATE

City's Supply Further Curtailed by Farmers—Violence at Some Points Reported.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The farmers of New York State tightened their grip on the milk supply today and caused a further reduction in the quantity supplied to this city, in their effort to compel the big distributers here to pay higher prices.

The milk war, which originated with the organization of the Dairymen's League, has spread throughout the State. Reports tell of thousands of gallons of milk spilled in combats between the dairymen and the employes of the distributers, the picketing of crossroads in dairy districts and of farmers being held up and beaten.

John J. Dillon, State Commissioner of Foods and Markets, who represents the League of Farmers, estimates that not more than 25 per cent of the normal amount of milk was shipped into New York City for use today. City distributers claimed they had received about 60 per cent of the 2,500,000 gallons required daily.

NEPHEW OF ZELAYA KILLS FOUR MEN IN AN ELECTION DAY FIGHT

Relative of Former President of Nicaragua Himself Seriously Wounded at Managua.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Oct. 3.—In an election fight here Sunday, when G. Chamorro was chosen President of the republic, Salvador Zelaya, a nephew of former President Zelaya, attacked a group of Conservatives, shooting and killing four of them. Zelaya himself was seriously wounded, and several other persons were hurt. The police quelled the disorder.

Gen. Chamorro has been for years an active leader of the Conservative party and for the last three years has been Nicaraguan Minister to Washington. He was unopposed in the election. Dr. Julian Irias, Liberal candidate, withdrew 10 days ago, giving as a reason that the State Department at Washington would not recognize the election of a candidate who had been connected with the administration of former President Zelaya.

WILSON BETS MADE AT 1 TO 2

Heretofore New York Brokers Wanted 2½ to 1.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—All betting commissioners on the "curb" had money yesterday to place on the President. Heretofore they have asked for 2½ to 1 against him. Yesterday they were generally accepting 2 to 1, which the Hughes men have been offering for some time.

Edward McQuade bet $1000 on Wilson against $2000 on Hughes. B. H. Scheftels, another curb broker placed $1000 on Wilson against $2000 on Hughes, one-half of the latter being taken by a prominent uptown theatrical man and the other by a member of the brokerage firm of J. W. Ball & Co.

L. J. Stokes offered $2000 against $5000, or 1 to 2½ on Wilson. J. J. Judge tried to place $4000 on the President against $10,000 on Hughes. Neither was successful.

Movement for Early Thanksgiving.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 3.—A movement to make the next Thanksgiving day Nov. 23 instead of Nov. 30 was begun here today by the Merchants' Association of Kansas City, when a telegram was sent to President Wilson requesting the earlier date. The merchants believe the holiday, falling on the last day of the month works a hardship, crowding all the Christmas business into three weeks.

INVESTORS HOLD 'MYSTERIOUS BAG,' NOTHING IN IT

St. Louisans Who Put $20,000 in Cartoon Movie Serial Get No Returns.

WAS NEWSPAPER SCHEME

Big Profits Were Expected by Grocers Giving Away Coupons for Prizes.

St. Louisans who bought stock in "The Mysterious Bag," a cartoon movie serial, are now holding the bag. So far as they have been able to learn it is empty.

A receiver for the "Mysterious Bag," appointed several days ago in Kansas City, at the instance of the St. Louis stock and "bag holders," has been unable to find anything in it but mystery.

Philip W. Haberman of the law firm of Stern & Haberman, in the Railway Exchange Building, was the president of the local company formed by the promoters to exploit the picture serial. Among the St. Louis stockholders also were Simon Van Raalte, a pawnbroker in the Holland Building and Abe Cohn, vice president of the National Feed Co., in the Chamber of Commerce Building. A number of St. Louis grocers also were financially interested in the project.

It Was a Serial.

"The Mysterious Bag" was launched as a movie serial last winter in the Globe-Democrat. The story was printed in installments in the Globe-Democrat and the scenario was written by a member of the staff of that newspaper.

Grocers who were enlisted in the exploitation were induced to give coupons to customers who bought certain brands of goods. These coupons were supposed to be good for prizes the nature of which was to be made known when the last picture in the series would reveal what was in the "Mysterious Bag."

Contingent contracts were made with wholesale and retail grocers and with the theaters where the pictures were shown whereby they were to turn over to the "Mysterious Bag" corporation a percentage of the profits which they made as a result of the scheme.

The theory was that the exploitation of the picture and the giving of coupons would advertise the grocers' goods and increase the theaters' business.

The "Mysterious Bag" was not the "hit" it had been acclaimed. Despite the efforts of the promoters to keep it alive, it "got the hook" and was yanked from the screen long before the promised prize-revealing climax, and no one in St. Louis ever learned what was in the bag. Local stockholders are said to have invested about $20,000 in the project.

Failed in Kansas City.

An effort to "put it over" in Kansas City was then made, but this also resulted disastrously.

Van Raalte yesterday told a Post-Dispatch reporter he did not expect to realize anything from his investment, which, he said, was made on the recommendation of Haberman, his attorney.

Cohn said he would sell his holdings for 25 cents on the dollar, but would not reveal how much he had invested. Members of the Columbian Club are said to have been the heaviest investors.

Cohn said lack of popular interest was the principal reason for the failure of the project. The expected profits did not roll in, and therefore the grocers and theaters could not be held to their contracts.

Victor H. Essen, 18-year-old son of Fred Essen of Clayton, will return Friday from Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., for treatment of an injury received in a class rush, and will probably have to undergo an operation.

JAPAN'S CABINET IS EXPECTED TO RESIGN

Premier Okuma Said to Be Ready to Retire in Favor of Viscount Kato.

TOKIO, Oct. 3.—The Nichi Nichi Shimbun in an extra edition announces that the Cabinet of Premier Count Okuma has decided to resign.

The Premier is said to have stated that he would recommend to the Emperor the appointment of Viscount Takaaki Kato as his successor.

The Okuma Cabinet was formed in August of last year. Its resignation had been expected for several months. It was forecast by the Premier in a speech last May, in which he indicated he would retire in favor of Viscount Kato. The Premier's advanced age—he is 78 years old—has been given as the reason for his decision to resign, although it has also been intimated he would withdraw to make way for a man of bolder national policy.

The Premier largely controlled the foreign policy of his country, and has been assailed by the opposition for not adopting a more vigorous attitude toward China. On many occasions he has expressed friendship for the United States, and in an interview several months ago said war between this country and Japan was impossible. Most of his active life has been spent in the public service.

Viscount Kato has served as Foreign Minister and Ambassador to Great Britain. He took a prominent part in the negotiations which followed the presentation of the 21 Japanese demands on China and also in the discussion with Washington of the California anti-alien land law.

HIGH COST OF LIVING MOUNTS WITH OCTOBER

Prices of All Foodstuffs Show Further Upward Trend—Some Increases 100 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Marked increase in the cost of living is shown in the rising tendency of prices of foodstuffs on Oct. 1, reports of which are just being received at the Department of Agriculture from the principal markets of the country.

With flour selling at prices higher than at any time since the Civil War, due principally to the shortage of the wheat crop this year, the cost of potatoes has mounted for the same reason. Meat prices continue to advance, with prices being paid to producers of meat animals showing almost 24 per cent over what was paid a year ago. Butter, eggs and cheese all are selling at higher prices for this time year than they were last year and beans show an increase of more than 70 per cent, over a year ago, because of the short crop. Onions are more than 50 per cent higher, and cabbages more than 40 per cent higher.

Prices paid to producers of farm products increased 9.3 per cent during August, while during the last eight years these prices have shown a decrease of about 2.1 per cent during that month. September began with the index figures of these prices 21.9 per cent higher than it was a year ago.

Butter was selling about 12 per cent higher than a year ago, according to the latest statistics available today at the Department of Agriculture. The price was 1 cent a pound higher than it had been in the last eight years at this time of the year. Eggs were selling 5 cents a dozen higher than last year, but were lower for the period than in several of the last eight years.

Potatoes were selling 116 per cent higher than a year ago.

Cheese showed an increase in price of more than 23 per cent over a year ago and was higher than it had been in the last eight year, being 1½ cents a pound more than the highest price in those years.

Hogs were selling 25 per cent higher than a year ago; beef cattle more than 7 per cent higher; veal calves more than 10 per cent higher; sheep more than 5 per cent higher; anad lambs more than 20 per cent higher.

Staple Foods in Chicago Advance 50 Per Cent in Year.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Staple foods, such as butter, eggs, cheese, have in the last year advanced nearly 50 per cent in price on the Chicago market, according to reports today from dealers in provisions, and even greater increases are shown in the price of potatoes, cabbage and onions. Potatoes have advanced from 48 cents a bushel to $1.45. Cabbage is selling today for $3 a barrel, as against 65 cents a year ago. Onions that sold for 60 cents a sack in 1915 are now bringing $1.35. Flour has increased more than 60 per cent in price within the last year—the highest price since the Civil War. The price of flour—the grade called bakers' flour—was advanced 10 cents a barrel today, to $8.75. It was the third advance in three weeks. A year ago the flour sold for $5.35 a barrel. The price of standard Minnesota patents, the family grade of flour, is $9.10 a barrel, a 20 per cent increase within the last three weeks.

GERMANS LAUNCH A NEW OFFENSIVE SOUTH OF DVINSK

Petrograd Announces Repulse of Attack at Northern End of Line—Crossing of Danube by Rumanians Threatens Mackensen's Rear.

Paris Reports Attacks of Germans Near Combles Were Beaten Back—but a Foothold Was Obtained in Eaucourt.

Berlin Admits Withdrawal of Forces in Transylvania in the Face of Heavy Attacks by Rumanians.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 3.—German forces have taken the offensive south of Dvinsk, near the northern end of the battle front in the east, attacking the Russian lines in force near Novo Alexandrovsk, the War Office announced today. They were met by an intense defensive fire from the Russian guns, however, and forced back to their positions, the official statement declares.

There have been reports for some time that Field Marshal von Hindenburg would center his attention on the Russian front and begin a great movement against the Russians. The German general headquarters has been maintained in the east since Von Hindenburg's appointment as chief of staff.

In the region west of Lutsk, near Zaturze, the Russians have scored advances in stubborn fighting. In the Zlota Lipa district and along other sectors of the front in Galicia fighting of a desperate nature is continuing, neither side scoring any marked advantage. In one sector the Russians took more than 1000 prisoners yesterday and the total taken in the region of the Ceniuvka in the fight since Friday last is reported at more than 5000 men.

The statement says:

"Western front: In the region east of Novo Alexandrovsk, about 6 o'clock in the evening, after artillery preparation, dense German columns endeavored to advance beyond their wire entanglements but were driven back to their trenches by our fire.

"In the neighborhood of Zaturze, Vola and Savovskala and Shelvov stubborn fighting is taking place. Our troops at some places captured portions of enemy positions. The enemy is showing the most stubborn resistance.

"On the River Ceniuvka and in the region of the heights on the right bank of the Zlota Lipa, stubborn battles continue. The enemy, having brought considerable reserves to the River Ceniuvka, launched a counter attack which was frustrated by our fire with severe losses to the enemy. Fierce fighting is still proceding. In this region yesterday more than 1000 prisoners were taken. The total number of prisoners taken in this region during the three battles of Saturday, Sunday and Monday is more than 5000."

Fogaras is 20 miles north of the Rumanian frontier and 35 miles northwest of Kronstadt.

MACKENSEN'S REAR MENACED BY NEW RUMANIAN MOVE

BERLIN, via London, Oct. 3.—The War Office announced today that Austrian and German monitors had destroyed the pontoon bridges across the Danube in the rear of the Rumanian forces which have crossed the river and invaded Bulgaria.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Field Marshal von Mackensen, who commands the forces of the central allies operating against the Rumanians and Russians in the province of Dobrudja, has ordered the evacuation of the Danube fortresses of Silistria and Turtukai recently captured by the Teuton, Bulgarian and Turkish forces, says an unconfirmed dispatch from Rome to the wireless press.

Brief announcements from both Bucharest and Berlin that the Rumanians have crossed the Danube south of their capital and invaded Bulgaria is hailed by London observers as a dramatic counter stroke against the Bulgarians for the defeat the Rumanians suffered at Hermannstadt. The river is wide and the southern bank higher than the northern, so that all disadvantages of position are against the Rumanians. It is pointed out. In any case, the crossing threatens

Few details of the crossing are given in the official statements. Bucharest says:

"Our troops crossed the Danube, between Rustchuk and Turtukai.

"In Dobrudja we attacked along the whole front and repulsed the enemy of his center and right flank."

Berlin, besides announcing the crossing, yesterday said Rumanian attacks in Dobrudja were repulsed and that the Rumanians had won ground on both sides of the great Kukel River in Transylvania.

In the Orsova sector the Austrians captured some heights from the Rumanians and took Mount Oborca, west of Petroseny.

Violent Fighting on Somme Front North of Rancourt.

PARIS, Oct. 3.—Violent fighting has been in progress on the Somme front north of Rancourt, the War Office announced today. The French curtain of fire and machine guns, however, were effective in checking German attempts to debouch from the St. Pierre Vaast Wood in this region.

The Servians, fighting in the Kaimakcalan region, on the Macedonian front, have made further progress, the War Office also announced, taking first-line trenches from the Bulgarians and capturing another battery.

Bulgarian attacks on British positions on the left bank of the Struma were repulsed, the Bulgarians sustaining heavy losses.

Germans Regain Foothold in Eaucourt l'Abbaye on West Front.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The official statement from British headquarters in France, issued at midnight, said:

"A heavy rain fell on the front early Monday morning. During the day there has been severe fighting in and about Eaucourt l'Abbaye. The enemy succeeded in regaining a footing in the buildings."

Servians Drive Bulgarians Back With Artillery Fire.

SOFIA, Oct. 3.—A retreat by the Bulgarians under heavy Servian artillery fire is reported in an official statement issued by the War Office referring to the Macedonian front. It says:

"In the Lake Presba region there was considerable artillery activity without infantry action at Hill 1944, south of Kaimakcalan. As a consequence of violent artillery fire on the summit, and in order to avoid unnecessary loss our troops were ordered to withdraw to their main position in the Moglenica Valley.

"On the Struma front enemy battalions which advanced under the protection of a hurricane of fire, succeeded in occupying the villages of Karadjakoi, Kenikoi and Nevolyen. By counter attacks we drove the enemy from the two last named villages to their former positions. Fighting near Karadjokoi continues."

COXCOMB 36 INCHES AROUND

County Resident Develops Fine Specimen of Autumn Flower.

Ernest Marshall, who lives a mile north of Webster Groves, brought to the Post-Dispatch office today a coxcomb measuring 36 inches in circumference, to back up his claim of Coxcomb King of St. Louis and St. Louis County. Flourishing his 36-inch product, he issued a defi to Clarence Howard and all the other coxcomb fans of St. Louis to match his product.

The coxcomb is coming into its own as the fall flower de luxe and many city and county residents are engaging in friendly rivalry in its production.

NEW MEDICAL SOCIETY MEETS

President Criticises Code of Ethics of American Medical Association.

The Medical Society of the United States began a three days' convention at the Planters Hotel today. Reports of committees and the address of President A. H. Ohmann-Dumesnil were made in the mornnig.

Dr. Ohmann-Dumesnil attacked the code of medical ethics of the American Medical Association in his address. He defined the code as "a club employed by the self-constituted high priests of medical circles for the purpose of intimidating the more retiring and less pugnacious members of medical societies," and as "a political club which was soon destined to be turned into a boomerang."

Morning and afternoon sessions will be held Wednesday and Thursday, with various phases of medical practice on the program for discussion.

KEY IS EVIDENCED IN SMALL MURDER CASE

Broker's Attorneys Say it Shows Door Was Locked From Inside After He Left.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, N. H., Oct. 3.—The fact that a key was found turned in the lock of the front door of the cottage where Mrs. Frederick Small, wife of a Boston real estate broker, was murdered last Thursday may be the evidence which will be the most forcible in behalf of the husband at his hearing Thursday, his attorneys declared today.

When the burning embers of the cottage had cooled the position of the key indicated thae someone had locked the dor from the inside. The prosecution admits that the door had no spring lock and the defense pointed out that Small could not have locked it after his departure from the house, and held that someone else must have committed the crime from inside the house.

Funeral services were conducted yesterday over the body of the murdered woman, while her husband paced his cell and wept because he could not be there. The casket, with its wreath of roses bearing the message "to my love," from the accused man, was placed in a vault and will not be buried until after the hearing.

RUN OVER BY CAR, LITTLE HURT

W. G. Fatherly Escapes by Lying Flat on Ties, Near Edwardsville.

W. G. Fatherly of 5331 Savoy Court, general agent for the Equitable Life Assurance Society, was run over by an interurban car near Edwardsville, Ill., at 10 o'clock last night, but escaped without serious injury.

He had been on an auto trip with Frank B. Sanders and wished to board a car for St. Louis at the Poag road crossing, south of Edwardsville. The car ran past. When it backed up Fatherly went to meet it. Crossing a small trestle, his foot went through and was caught between the ties. The car backed over him, but by lying flat on the ties he escaped with only a few bruises and sprains. He went home on the car.

NEW THEATER LAW PROPOSED

Provisions requiring all theaters having a capacity of more than 100 seats to be conducted in fireproof buildings and equipped with fireproof scenery, with a water curtain between the auditorium and the stage, are contained in the revision of the building code submitted to the Board of Aldermen yesterday.

Compliance with the ordinance by Dec. 31, 1921, is made obligatory. After that date theaters failing to meet the new regulations will be closed.

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughed at on account of your fat, but go to Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. or any good druggist and get a box of Oil of Korein capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body.

It costs little, is absolutely harmless, and a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat.—ADV.

AUTOIST WHO KILLED BOY FREED

County Prosecutor Refuses to Issue Information for J. H. Rodes.

The case against J. H. Rodes of 108 Rock Hill road, Webster Groves, charged with careless and reckless driving when his automobile killed Lester Jones, a 10-year-old boy, on Lockwood avenue, Webster Groves, Saturday afternoon, was dismissed by Justice Belding today, following the refusal of Prosecuting Attorney Ralph to issue an information.

The verdict at the inquest Saturday was that the boy's death was an accident due to careless driving. Prosecuting Attorney Ralph, in refusing to issue an information, said that he was satisfied from his investigation that the accident was unavoidable. The funeral of the boy was held today. Rodes attended and will pay the expenses.

AMERICAN KILLED IN MEXICO

Reported Shot by Carranza Colonel for Using English in Cafe at Capital.

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 3.—G. W. Morton, an American employed in a railroad office in Mexico City, was shot and killed by a Carranza Colonel recently in the Mexican capital, according to his sister, Mrs. L. E. Rogers of this city, who says the news was contained in a letter received today from H. W. Langdon, an American engineer, who witnessed the shooting.

The letter, Mrs. Rogers said, stated that the officer told Morton and Langdon in a cafe that the use of English was forbidden, and when Morton asked when such an order was issued, the officer shot him.

SOLDIER ADMITS DESERTION

Arrested in East St. Louis When Trading Off Uniform Coat.

John de Armond, 19 years old, of Mayfield, Ky., who was arrested in a saloon in East St. Louis last night while exchanging his soldier uniform coat for a civilian coat of John C. New, 21, of Fulton, Ky., admitted today, the police say, that he deserted from the army at Jefferson Barracks Sunday, after having enlisted last Thursday.

De Armond said he gave his name as John Jones when he enlisted. He said when he was walking near the barracks Sunday afternoon he met a woman who persuaded him to leave with her and go to East St. Louis.

Treasure Hunt Off for Winter.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 5.—Capt. George D. Stilson, comanding the treasure-hunting tugs Beckwith, Fearles and Titania, has abandoned for the winter efforts to find the sunken steamer Meredia, which sank off the Virginia Capes several years ago with a million-dollar cargo of silver bullion.

PRESIDENT WILL START FOR OMAHA TONIGHT TO SPEAK

Address There Is to Be Less Political Than One Delivered Saturday.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 3.—President Wilson will depart tonight for Omaha, where he will speak Thursday morning. He goes by way of Philadelphia and Chicago, reaching Omaha Thursday morning. Mrs. Wilson and Secretary Tumulty will accompany him. He will return to Long Branch Saturday morning.

Although many requests for the President to speak en route to Omaha have been received at the executive offices, no arrangements for any addresses have been made. Mr. Wilson will travel in a private car attached to a regular train and only the regular short stops will be made. He is adhering strictly to his determination not to turn the trip into a campaign tour.

Has Outlined Address.

The President has not decided on all the subjects to be discussed in his Omaha address, but has outlined the address in a general way. While the speech will not be as political in its tone as the one he delivered here last Saturday, he expects to touch on public questions now before the country.

The President discussed the censorship of moving pictures today with William A. Brady and a committee. He said his mind was open on the subject and listened carefully to the arguments of the committee. He also conferred briefly with Charles W. McAlpine, secretary of Princeton University. He was up early this morning playing golf.

The President's campaign program up to election day was partly completed yesterday at a conference that he held with Chairman McCormick.

Arrangements were completed for a trip of the President to Cincinnati, making four visits that he will pay to the Middle West. He will speak in Cincinnati on Oct. 26 under the auspices of the City Club.

President's Speaking Program.

The President's speaking program includes the following engagements: Omaha Neb., Oct. 5; Shadow Lawn, Oct. 7; Indianapolis, Oct. 12; Pennsylvania day at Shadow Lawn, Oct. 14; St. Louis and Ohio day at Shadow Lawn, Oct. 17; Chicago, Oct. 19; Farmers' day at Shadow Lawn, Oct. 21; Cincinnati, Oct. 26. In addition to these speaking engagements, the President will deliver an address at Shadow Lawn Oct. 28 and will pay two visits to New York State on dates not yet selected. McCormick said his program will carry the President up to election day and that few, if any, additions will be made.

Secretary McAdoo, who had planned to make several political speeches, probably will not carry out his plans because of public business necessitating his presence in Washington.

The President has almost completed the selection of the Shipping Board and the board created by Congress to observe the workings of the eight-hour law for railroad employes. Two of the members of the Shipping Board probably will be Bernard Baker of Baltimore, and William Denman of San Francisco.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE WHEN SICK, CROSS OR FEVERISH

Hurry, mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once if bilious or constipated.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, undigested food and bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—ADV.

TAFT-T. R.-HUGHES BUTTONS TO BE IN DISFAVOR TONIGHT

Some Come to Light Despite Effort of Union League Club to Suppress Them.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Efforts to suppress the Roosevelt-Hughes-Taft buttons suggested for use at the Union League Club reception to Charles E. Hughes this evening, which will be attended by former Presidents Taft and Roosevelt, have not been wholly successful. A few came to light last night. The picture of Roosevelt appears on the left, that of Hughes in the center and Tafft's on the right. Above Roosevelt's likeness is the word "Security," above Hughes picture is "Harmony" and above Taft's "Justice."

National Chairman Willcox said several days ago that he had not ordered the buttons. Their general use at the reception this evening is not expected.

There is much speculation as to whether President Root of the Union League Club will endeavor to have the Colonel publicly shake hands with Mr. Taft and "Boss" Bill Barnes. No one seems to know.

Col. Roosevelt has declared he will make no advances either to Taft or Barnes. Taft and Barnes are silent. Exceptional care will be exercised to see that nothing occurs to embarrass either Roosevelt or Taft.

Taft returned to New Haven yesterday after spending his summer vacation at Murray Bay, Canada. His weight has been reduced to 286 pounds, nearly 100 pounds lower than when he was President of the United States. Taft said that golf deserves most of the credit for placing him in fighting trim for the campaign, which will begin for him at the Hughes meeting tonight.

The former President met Roosevelt two years ago at the funeral in New Haven of Prof. Thomas Launsbury of Yale, and their mutual attitude was formal and frigid. Taft declined to say today whether he expected a higher temperature to prevail tonight. He will speak at a Trenton, (N. J.) rally Wednesday evening.

MAN HELD AFTER MURDER OF HIS 64-YEAR-OLD BRIDE

Grand Rapids Authorities Claim to Have Traced Recent Purchase of Revolver to Him.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 3.—James Allen, 64 years old, who says he is from Ashtabula, O., is being held by Kent County authorities pending completion of an investigation into the death of Mrs. Anna St. John of Mayfield, N. Y., whose bullet-pierced body was found in a field near Grand Rapids, last Sunday. County records show that Allen and Mrs. St. John were married here Sept. 19.

The authorities say that Allen—who, they claim, told them he also has used the names of James Alerton and John Williams—purchased a revolver in Grand Rapids some time ago, and that he signed the name "Alerton" to the blank. He also registered at a local hotel as "Alerton," it is claimed. Until late yesterday the Sheriffs worked upon the theory that the dead woman was Mrs. Addie M. Kimbal of Chicago.

DRINK WATER TO AVOID SICKNESS SAYS AN AUTHORITY

Glass of hot water before breakfast daily keeps the doctor away.

Sanitary science has of late made rapid strides with results that are of untold blessing to humanity. The latest application of its untiring research is the recommendation that it is as necessary to attend to internal sanitation of the drainage system of the human body as it is to the drains of the house.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Eeryone whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning before breakfast drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the phosphated hot water is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatic stiffness; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.—ADV.

LORD BRYCE FOR LEAGUE TO KEEP WORLD AT PEACE

British Statesman Says Plan Hardly Could Succeed Without America's Aid—Decries Spirit of Hatred of Germans.

BIRMINGHAM, England, Oct. 3.—Viscount Bryce of Dechmont, former Ambassador at Washington, addressing the Congregational Union today, decried the spirit of hate against the Germans and the talk of a lasting trade war. In conclusion, he advocated a league to restrain aggression and compel arbitration.

"If there is to be a recurrence of wars, becoming more terrible with the unceasing advance of science," he said, "we may well despair of the future."

Lord Bryce recalled that Premier Asquith, Lord Gray and A. J. Balfour had expressed energetically and sincerely the need of such machinery as he proposed and said that several groups of thinkers were working out the plans.

"To establish any machinery for preserving peace," continued Lord Bryce, "would be impossible without the cooperation of the neutral states, and especially the greatest of all of the neutral states. We have been waiting and watching to see whether America would, in view of the immense interests at stake, depart from her old policy of complete isolation and bear her part in the effort for securing a permanent alliance for peace. An influential league for that purpose has already been formed there and now two momentous events have happened on which I dwell because they have been little noticed here.

Quotes President and Hughes.

"President Wilson delivered four months ago a powerful and luminous speech, in which he announced that the United States could not stand aloof from a movement in which the highest interests of manhood were concerned, and that he felt sure the people of the United States were prepared to join in any feasible scheme for the prevention of future wars.

"Two months ago Mr. Charles E. Hughes, in accepting the nomination as candidate for the presidency by the Republican party, declared with no less force and no less sincerity that he was convinced the time had come for America to unite with European countries in a well-considered scheme for applying methods of arbitration and conciliation to securing general and permanent peace in the world.

"Thus the heads of the two great American parties, distinguished men and the official exponents of American opinion, have promised the co-operation of their nation in this project—one of great difficulty, no doubt, but also of supreme importance.

"Our people and the statesmen who lead our people could have no greater encouragement to address themselves, when the time comes, to the enterprise which thy have already pronounced to be necessary. I ask your help to bring the matter before the people and to show them how much we and every nation have to gain by removing the terror and the danger of war, which so long has hung like a black cloud over Europe. The churches could do no more Christian work.

"Let not this war have been fought in vain! Let us search for and try to put into practice some scheme for reducing and, if possible, at last, for ending this oldest and most terrible scourge of mankind."

People Demand Enduring Peace.

Lord Bryce said the country was virtually unanimous in holding that the war must be pursued to victory so complete as to open the prospect of an enduring peace, and added:

"On the terms of that treaty the people will insist and ought to insist on expressing their opinion, and the churches must do their part in helping to form it."

He declared that the precepts of Christianity coincide with those of political wisdom, and that the churches should work for national unity and good feeling between the classes.

"Let us avoid, let us repress the spirit of hatred," he said. "We are justly indignant at the war the enemy Powers have waged. We trust that our victory will warn the world that such methods must never be resorted to again, and that those guilty of them will be punished, but is it wise to talk of banning a whole people for all time to come? The German people are under a harsh and tyrannous rule, which has not only deceived and misled them, but silences any protest—and there are those who wish to protest—against its crimes. Some day we hope they will overthrow it, when they have learned the truth.

"To indulge in revenge will be to sow the seeds of future wars. Nations cannot hate one another forever, and the sooner they cease to do so the better for all of them. We must take all proper steps to defend ourselves from any dangers that might arise if after the war the enemy countries were to resume an insidious hostility. That is at present no more than a possibility, which may never arise.

Trade War Would Embitter Hatreds.

"But the talk we now hear about starting war after peace has been concluded, a new war of trade to follow the war of arms, has immense capacities for mischief. Such a trade war would prolong, would embitter afresh those hatreds that ought to be allowed to die and it assumes a continuance of those very things from which we expect our victory to deliver us once for all.

"Our main purpose will have failed if we do not secure a durable peace. To prolong hatreds would increase suspicion, would lead in time to a recurrence to those very calamities from which we are suffering. If severe terms have to be imposed, let that be done only so far as is necessary for securing future peace, not in a vindicative spirit, which, in perpetuating hatreds, would end by relighting the flames of war."

Lord Bryce advocated that the principles of nationality be respected as far as possible, especially in the cases of Poland, the Southern Slavs, Transylvania and Armenia.

An article expressing the same views as contained in his speech is contributed by Lord Bryce to a special American number of the Manchester Guardian. The number contains articles from other distinguished British and American writers.

UNION ELECTRIC CHARGED WITH "HARASSING" RIVAL

Attorney for Light and Development Co. Makes Assertion at Public Service Board Hearing.

Charges that the Union Electric Light and Power Co. employs publicity agents to visit towns in which the Light and Development Co. of St. Louis operates plants "to harass" the latter, were made by Attorney J. R. Kelso at a hearing before the Board of Public Service yesterday afternoon. Kelso was representing the Cuppies Station Light, Heat and Power Co., one of the Light and Development's subsidiaries, which is seeking to connect a generating plant on St. Charles street, between Sixth and Seventh streets and the Nugent store at Broadway and St. Charles street.

A. C. Einstein, vice president and general manager, and Ben Schnurmacher, general counsel of the Union Electric Co., denied the allegations made by Kelso. Schnurmacher introduced Einstein to testify that the Union company had not opposed the granting of the permit under which the Cupples Station company is seeking to extend its lines.

METHODIST PASTOR DIVORCED

The Rev. Tolman Ragsdale, former pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church at Belleville, has been divorced by the Circuit Court at Washington, Ind., according to information received in Belleville.

A cross bill filed by Mrs. Ragsdale, in which she named a Belleville young woman, was denied and the name of the young woman was stricken from the record. The decree was granted to the pastor on the grounds of desertion.

BRITISH CAVALRY IS ACTIVE AT BAPAUME

Fighting North of the Somme Has Become Open—Lines Two Miles From Town.

BY FREDERICK PALMER,
The Only American Correspondent at British Headquarters in France.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 2, via London, Oct. 3.—Bapaume is now only two miles beyond the British advance line. Soldiers charging in yesterday's attack speak of their amazement at finding themselves crossing a field of sugar beets. They had at last fought their way out of the desert zone created by the shell fire into a region where peasants have grown their crops, and evacuated their homes only when the battlefront drew nearer.

Looking toward Bapaume behind rich farming country, with the villages largely intact, it appears almost as normal as that 10 miles back of the old trench lines on the British side. So open has the fighting become now in the center that cavalry patrols have been used. Though some of the riders' horses have been shot from under them and some horses floundered in the abandoned trenches, others carried their scouting nearly a mile beyond the infantry advanced line and brought back valuable information

Most of those who lost their horses managed to return on foot with their reports. Others brought in prisoners, including an officer from among the German outposts in the shell craters, who was astounded at the apparition of men on horseback looking out of the night on the western front, where the cavalry had had so little to do.

The British are on the southern edge of Lesars and around Eaucourt l'Abbaye, where the Germans still hold forth in the cellars of the old Abbaye buildings.

Merchant Tries to Drink Poison.

John Dickson, a merchant, 39 years old, of 1805 Montgomery street, tried to drink carbolic acid last night at the home of his mother, Mrs. Ida Dickson, 1946 Wright street, after asking her if she would buy him flowers if he were dead. His brother, Robert, knocked the acid bottle from his hand. He is said to have been ill.

AN OLD FURNITURE SECRET

How a Famous Furniture House Cleans and Beautifies Fine Pieces

The old established house of Tobey (Chicago & New York), makers of fine furniture, uses a secret shop formula for cleaning and beautifying the rich finishes of all furniture they make.

This formula is now offered to the world in the form of Tobey Polish. Already it is being used in the finer homes throughout the country. It is more than a furniture polish. It restores the original finish by removing all dirt and blemishes. Cleans off dirt and grease much more easily than soap and water. Wipes off dry. Leaves no oily film or veneer. Does not dry or crack the finest finish, but renews the elasticity of the varnish.

Further advantages are the ease and speed with which it works. Results are instantaneous. No hard work, no hard rubbing. After the furniture and woodwork have been cleaned with Tobey Polish, a little used on the dust cloth will keep everything looking new from day to day. Try it on any article of furniture from a chair to a piano. There is nothing like it for cleaning and preserving the finish of automobile bodies. Gives a beautiful polish that will not collect dust.

Don't wash fine varnished surfaces. Don't use "polishes" that shine today and mar tomorrow. Try Tobey Polish—the same old secret formula used by a famous furniture house. Bottles 25c and 50c; quart jugs, $1.—ADV.

MEXICANS OFFER A CONCRETE PLAN TO GUARD BORDER

Carranza Commissioners Propose Divided Patrol, With Withdrawal of U. S. Troops.

RECIPROCITY IN CROSSING

Declare That Their Proposal, if Accepted, Will Insure Safety of Frontier.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 3.—On the resumption of the Mexican conference here yesterday, the Mexican commissioners, acting on instructions from Gen. Carranza, again urged the withdraway of all American troops from Mexican soil and presented the following plan for the protection of the American border:

1. That all American troops be withdrawn from Mexico.
2. That all American troops guard the border on the American side wherever the railroads on American soil run parallel or close to the border.
3. That the Mexican troops guard the border on the Mexican side where there are no railroads in close proximity to the border.
4. That a system of communication be kept up between the American and Mexican forces by means of officers de liaison so that information may readily be transmitted and steps taken to head off bandits.
5. That a reciprocal agreement be entered into giving the forces of either country the right to cross the border into the territory of the other on a hot trail within a given zone of 100 miles.

Think Border Would Be Safe.

The Mexican commissioners took great pains to point out that they were as anxious as their American colleagues to protect the American border and to make impossible the renewal of such incidents as the Columbus raid. They asserted their belief that the plan proposed by them would achieve the purpose of the conference.

In support of their plan they urged that under Presidents Hayes and Garfield a somewhat similar arrangement had been in force and that in Gen. Grant's administration a reciprocal understanding existed for either side crossing the border on a hot trail.

They cited one instance where a party of American Indians, escaping from their reservation, had crossed the border and carried off horses and cattle and two girls, but that the pursuing rurales halted at the border and sent a message to the agent in charge of the reservation without crossing the border, as they had a right to do.

This they asserted would certainly be the case again under the agreement they urged, but their instructions from Gen. Carranza were to demand reciprocal rights as far as crossing the border is concerned. This has been Carranza's position from the beginning.

It was also made clear that although the Mexican commissioners would be glad to receive any advice the American commissioners could give as to the solution of their internal problems, they would not permit themselves to be dictated to and would resent any attempt to include such provisions in any protocol which might be signed. They do not take the position that the withdrawal of the American troops must be unconditional, but they hold that American troops have no business on Mexican soil and they are presenting their plan for the protection of the border, so as to forestall any objection that might be raised to the withdrawal of the American troops, which is the controversy they have been instructed to settle first.

A committee representing 50 mining and smelting companies operating in Mexico protested to the American members of the commission yesterday against what they called "confiscatory decrees" in that country and urged the return to the old methods of taxation.

William Loeb Jr., representing the American Smelting & Refining Co., headed the delegation.

Mother Love Aids Son in Trenches

It Brings Relief to Boy Standing His Watch Deep In Mud.

Once upon a time, only a few months after this terrible world war had begun, Private Bailey, a soldier in the ranks had stood for days in the trenches "somewhere in France." The cold rains soaked him to the skin; the mud was deep. He had had no rest. Weary and aching with rheumatic pains, he recalled the faith his mother had in Sloan's Liniment. He asked for it in his next letter home. A large bottle was immediately sent him and a few applications killed the pain, once more he was able to stand the severe exposure. He shared this wonderful muscle-soother with his comrades, and they all agreed it was the greatest "reinforcement" that had ever come to their rescue. At your druggist, 25c, 50c and $1.00 a bottle.

The wedding will take place in January.

BEDBUGS INFEST ONE CITY HOSPITAL WARD

Vermin Found as Result of Statement to Medical Society — Other Sections Clean.

Dr. William Preston Hill, a wealthy retired physician, in an address before the St. Louis Medical Society Saturday night, declared the St. Louis City Hospital was infested with bedbugs and was otherwise improperly conducted. A Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday went with Dr. Hill to the city hospital and Dr. John A. Pringle, superintendent, conducted them through the institution.

In the women's wards the beds were examined and the patients questioned as to food and treatment. No bugs were found, and the women all said the food was wholesome and sufficient. In the men's department beds in three of the third-floor wards were inspected for bugs, but none were found. Nor were there any complaints against the food or attention.

The fourth ward visited on the third floor, a section of division 15, contained 12 bedfast rheumatic patients. The beds were found to be infested with bedbugs, which, the patients said, had annoyed them for weeks. No other complaints were heard. Some patients in wards on the second floor said they had seen "a bug or two," but examination of the beds revealed none.

Referring to division 15, Dr. Pringle said: "The nurse in that ward should have met this condition with proper measures, and, failing to eliminate the vermin, should have made a report. This was not done. We will employ effective measures at once to clean that ward.

"Bedbugs will get into any institution, no matter what diligence is exercised. Thousands of persons from all walks of life visit this hospital each year, and bedbugs are often carried in clothing."

The hospital kitchen was found to be clean.

GIRL LOSES SUIT OVER WILL

Court Denies Her Half Interest in Grandmother's $25,000 Estate.

Miss Louise Disser, 17 years old, of Denver, yesterday lost the suit she brought in the United States District Court to obtain a half interest in the $25,000 estate of her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Disser of Ferguson, Mo. Judge Dyer, after a hearing which lasted three days, decided against her.

The greater part of the estate, comprising real estate at Ferguson, was deeded by Mrs. Disser to her son, Louis J. Disser. The remainder was willed to him and to her granddaughter, Louise Disser. The genuineness of the signature on the deed to Louis Disser was the principal point in controversy and Judge Dyer held that the signature was that of Mrs. Disser.

Another member of the gang, Frank Rice, was captured last Friday, seriously wounded, and Leland Rice was killed on Chokoloskee Island. The man drowned was James Tucker. Three of the posse were killed by the bandits.

3 TRAINS ATTACKED IN NEW YORK CAR STRIKE

Shooting Follows Reduction of Police Guard, and Bullet Clips Passenger's Ear.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Shortly after announcement was made that police guards were to be removed from elevated and subway cars, three trains were attacked today, one of them a Bronx subway express. A bullet fired at an elevated train clipped a piece from the right ear of a passenger, Melville Wright, 40 years old, and fell to the floor after penetrating a motorman's booth.

Practical admission of the failure of the general sympathetic strike in New York was made in a report to a conference of labor leaders yesterday. They recommended that every union man in the city be assessed $1 for the benefit of the traction strikers.

PLEASURE CARS OF ALL TYPES IN AUTO PARADE

Band at Head Rides in Heavy Truck, but Plays Light Music.

In the first annual St. Louis automobile parade, taking the place of the automobile show as a festival week feature, 110 bright new cars were driven through the West End and downtown streets today. Dealers were the exhibitors.

In the line of machines, extending over six blocks, there were cars to suit almost every purse, from the $345 runabout to the $8000 limousine. The parade was headed by a band, which rode on a heavy truck, but played light music.

In the line were touring cars, roadsters of various types, limousines, sedans, coupes, town cars, landaulets, cabriolets, convertibles and runabouts. On each car was a sign showing its make and price.

Starting at Vandeventer avenue and Lindell boulevard, the parade moved east to the Lindell cut-off and thence east on Locust street to Twelfth street, north to Washington avenue, east to Broadway, south to Olive, west to Twelfth street, south to Pine street, west to Grand avenue and north to Page boulevard. From Grand avenue and Page boulevard the machines were driven to the St. Louis Fair at Maxwellton, St. Louis County, to be exhibited there. The cars were parked at the side of the road in the rear of the grand stand and attracted as much attention as any other exhibit.

In the downtown district the parade was greatly impeded by traffic, especially at street car crossings. This caused it to be split up into sections and the line was not reformed until after Eighteenth street had been passed on the return.

WOMAN AND SON SUE ESTATE OF CONNECTICUT MILLIONAIRE

She Alleges She Was Common Law Wife of S. J. Hyde, and That He Was Father of Her Child.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Oct 3.—Albert J. Donahue, who alleges in the legal papers that he is a son of the late Seymour J. Hyde of Greenwich, has brought suit for $400,000 against the estate of the millionaire. Mrs. Theresa Donahue brought a conjoint suit for $33,700 against the executors of the Hyde estate, which amounts to $2,189,435. She alleges she was Hyde's common-law wife; that he paid her $2000 a year while they were associated and that he promised her that a similar income would be paid after his death. Mrs. Donahue was not mentioned in his will.

Hyde was thrown from a horse in February, 1915, and fatally hurt. He was 54 years old.

Albert J. Donahue, who was born on May 18, 1886, alleges in the affidavits presented today that Hyde supported and educated him in his youth and promised he should have a share in the estate. His mother is 48 years old.

Money to Be Used for Construction of 1500 Miles of Railroad in Far Eastern Republic.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Details of the proposed new American $60,000,000 loan for railroad construction in China, twice the size of any previous similar loan and arranged with a view to increasing the republic's total railroad mileage by 50 per cent, has been disclosed in detail here by David S. Under the agreement the Siems-Carey company of St. Paul, Minn., contracts to construct as soon as possible as the money is furnished by the American International Corporation, 1,5000 miles of railroad through the richest sections of China, and obtains an optional contract to build another 1500 miles later.

China has but 6000 miles of railroad in the whole empire.

FORD DENIES HE WILL GIVE TO PRESIDENT'S CAMPAIGN FUND

Says That If People Are Sane They Will Re-Elect Executive by a Large Majority.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 3.—Henry Ford, when asked after he had talked for four hours with President Wilson at Shadow Lawn, if he intended to make a contribution to the Wilson campaign fund, replied: "I should say not."

"Why?"

"Because I believe the office should seek the man and not the man the office."

"In the case of President Wilson," Ford continued, "the office just now is seeking the man, and there is no reason why 1 cent should be expended to change the situation and make it appear that the man is seeking the office."

"What do you believe are the possibilities of the re-election of Mr. Wilson?"

"If the American people are sane—and I believe they are—Mr. Wilson will be re-elected and by a large majority in the electoral college."

"Do you intend to make any speeches for him?"

"I never make speeches," Ford replied.

HARRY B. HAWES NOMINATED FOR THE STATE LEGISLATURE

Former Democratic Boss Picked by Committee as Candidate in Third District to Succeed Felix McAdams, Who Resigned.

Harry B. Hawes, known 12 years ago as the political boss of St. Louis, was named today as the Democratic candidate for State Representative from the Third District of St. Louis, to fill a vacancy caused by the withdrawal from the ticket of Felix (Fish) McAdams, nominated in the primary to succeed himself.

Hawes' name was put on the ticket by the Legislative Committee of the Third District, which received McAdams' resignation yesterday. The Third District is normally Democratic.

In 1910, when State-wide prohibition was submitted to the voters of Missouri through the initiative, Hawes took a leading part in the campaign against the proposed prohibition amendment to the Constitution. The amendment was beaten by 435,406 noes to 207,281 ayes—a little more than a two-to-one vote.

In a formal statement Hawes made plain that he is not seeking the office to wage a particular fight against prohibition. He said that the office would give him opportunity to work for a good roads law. Hawes was one of the most energetic workers for the St. Louis County $3,000,000 bond issue for good roads. For 18 months he said in his statement, he has been studying roads and road laws.

Expects Attack by Drys.

In concluding his formal statement, Hawes said:

"A friend stated he feared, because I was counsel of August A. Busch, the object of my going to the Legislature might be assumed by some to be for the purpose of affecting the liquor question.

"A slight consideration of the facts, however, should dispel this impression.

"Every member, either Democratic or Republican, who will go to the next Legislature from this city, will be opposed to prohibition. All the present candidates in this district are opposed to it. In all probability there will be a preponderance of 'dry' sentiment in the Legislature, so that my vote or my voice would not affect the result if 'dry' legislation is attempted.

"It is true that I am Mr. Busch's personal counsel, and the relationship is even closer, for I have been his intimate, personal friend for over fifteen years, and regard him highly both as a friend and as a citizen, so if assailed upon such trivial ground, I shall meet the issue squarely."

He referred to the plan of Daniel C. Nugent, Edward M. Flesh and others for building a system of model roads in a 50-mile radius of St. Louis, and said he would like to see a comprehensive State road law, which would enable the construction of such roads. He and others are now having the road laws of Missouri codified with a view to introducing in the next Legislature a comprehensive road law to take the place of the present "complicated, antiquated and confused enactments."

Hawes said he would be able to do more good for St. Louis and St. Louis County, as well as for the rest of the State, by the passage of good road laws than in any other way. As to the prohibition question, he said, every St. Louis member of the Legislature will be opposed to it and there would be no particular advantage gained by his working specifically against prohibition. He said he thought the question would be decided definitely at the polls in November.

Although Hawes has a country home in St. Louis County, he maintains a legal residence at the Warwick Hotel, Fifteenth and Locust streets, making him eligible as a candidate from the downtown district.

MYSTERY IN DEATH OF 3 WOMEN

Inquiry Follows Finding of Bodies in Chairs in Ohio City.

LANCASTER, O., Oct. 3.—James A. Tobin, Prosecuting Attorney, is investigating the mysterious case of Misses Agnes and Alice Smetters and Miss May Stretton, who were found dead seated in chairs in the parlor of the old "Smetters Mansion" here Sunday night, on the theory that the women were slain. So far the police and Coroner's inquiry has failed to reveal how the three women met death.

"Without any supporting proof of the fact, I am inclined to believe that death was due to asphyxiation," Tobin said.

STOLEN AUTO IS DAMAGED

Policeman Fires Shots at Four Men Who Escape.

An automobile belonging to William Moxey of 1027A North Leonard avenue was stolen about 1 o'clock this morning from in front of the Sheridan House, Leffingwell and Easton avenues, and 25 minutes later collided with a telephone pole in front of 1211 Glasgow avenue.

A patrolman saw four men jump from the car and run. One limped as though injured. The patrolman fired several shots in the air, but the men escaped. The car was damaged to the extent of $100.

HANLY POKES FUN AT OLD PARTIES' LEADERS

President Wilson, Hughes, Roosevelt and Marshall Ridiculed in Kansas Speeches.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 3.—The Prohibition national campaigners who are traveling over the country in a special train are having fun at the expense of the Democrats and Republicans. The candidates came into Missouri last night for a meeting here, where interest is intense in the wet and dry fight.

Both J. Frank Hanly and Ira Landrith, candidates for President and Vice President, respectively, pleaded with Kansas people at every city yesterday to get actively into the national fight.

"We challenge you to step to our sides as you stepped to Lincoln's in 1861," Hanly said at Osage City. "Let Wilson and Hughes quarrel over whether a Government employe is a horse doctor and come with us to fight for the real issue. You said aside party affiliations in 1861; won't you do it now? If Landrith and I can afford to give three months to this fight without remuneration, surely you can afford to give us your vote."

Hanly continued to assail Vice President Marshall for obtaining the repeal of the local option law in Indiana.

"Marshall never has risen above the attitude of a medicine man," he declared at Emporia.

Hanly also declared that from Col. Roosevelt's speech in Battle Creek Saturday night he seemed to be "laboring under the impression that he was nominated at Chicago."

"Roosevelt's indorsement of Hughes is not enough, he said, at Topeka. "His ability as an underwriter of Presidents is too well known to the American people; they do not forget that he underwrote William Howard Taft."

Landrith declared in an address at Topeka that Hughes should be lined up with the drys, for thus far he had even failed to put "punch" into his campaign.

WOMAN HIT BY MOTOR CYCLE

Mrs. H. C. Meister Knocked Unconscious at Grand and Lafayette Avenues.

Mrs. Herman C. Meister, 45 years old, of 2930 Geyer avenue, was knocked unconscious at 7 o'clock last night at Grand and Lafayette avenues by a motor cycle driven by John Gibbons of 4331 Morgan street. She received cuts about the head and face and lost her pocketbook, containing $40 and valuable papers. She was taken home.

Mrs. Meister had just placed her automobile in a garage and was crossing the street. Gibbons' wife, Mrs. Ethel Gibbons, who was with him on the motor cycle, was thrown off and received cuts and bruises. Gibbons was arrested.

NEW YORK REALTY ASSESSED AT NEARLY $8,000,000,000

Personal Prope- - Put at $500,000,000 The Hetty Green Estate Leading With $20,000,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The tentative tax list of New York City on real estate for 1917, made public yesterday, shows a total assessed valuation of nearly $8,000,000,000. The tentative assessment on personal property is placed at $500,000,000. The real property of this city, according to the tax books, is worth $7,833,875,536, which is a net increase of $51,405,837 over the assessment of last year.

The largest personal property valuation is that of the Hetty Green estate—$20,000,000. Mrs. Green was rated as the richest woman in the world. The next largest personal estate is that of Anthony N. 1917 AUTO BUDS HONK THEIR WAY INTO GASOLINE SET

"Open Week" Coming Out Party Along "Automobile Row" Introduces Them.

"Automobile Row," as Locust street from Twentieth street to the Olive-Lindell cutoff is known, was the objective yesterday afternoon and last night of those who wished to see the very latest creations of the motor world. It is open week on the row, and lights were blazing within and in front of every automobile and accessory agency on the street last night. Open week is designed to take the place of the October show at Forest Park Highlands. Most of the showrooms are decorated with potted plants, flowers and pennants.

A fine spirit of co-operation prevails among the dealers and factory agents this week. Those agents who are not fortunate enough to have salesrooms on the street have been taken in, rent free, by the agents who have. Drop in any showroom and inquire where you can find the exhibit of an agent selling a competitive car, and forthwith you are hustled into a waiting automobile and driven to the showroom you wish to visit. Every agent seems to have a good word for his rival agent, and everybody talks the merits of his own machine and makes no discourse upon the demerits of any other.

High Cost Not Solved.

The new things in the automobile this year run principally to body refinements. There are no startling motor improvements over last year. The big problem confronting the motor world—the additional cost of motoring on account of the high price of gasoline—has not been solved by the gasoline car manufacturers. Last year's car will run as many miles on a gallon of gasoline as the new cars. Practically all the cars have the same motors as last year, but some manufacturers have introduced innovations so that a lower grade of gasoline may be used, with as good or better mileage results as on higher priced gasoline.

This improvement has been brought about by attaching the carbureter direct to the cylinder block. The low-grade gasoline is vaporized in the carbureter, and the gas is drawn immediately into the cylinders, without having to pass through any arm device in which it may be condensed. This feature is found on the new Packard twin-six motor, and the Hudson super-six. The manufacturers make the claim that by the use of No. 4 gasoline, a mixture practically of kerosene, naphtha and casing head gas, more mileage is obtained than from the higher grades of gasoline. There is some saving resulting from the use of the cheaper grades of fuel.

The manufacturers seem to be perfectly willing to stand on the efficiency of last year's motors, both as to their records of performance and gasoline consumption. The agents say that nearly all the machines will go from 10 to 15 miles on a gallon of gasoline, and that nobody ought to complain about that.

The electric dealers, however, say that their sales have been greatly increased by the high price of gasoline. Many of their customers, the dealers say, are former owners of gasoline cars, who have bought electrics for women members of their families and Fords for themselves. The electric agents make the claim that $7.50 a month will be the maximum cost of electricity for the operation of a five-passenger electric car. Then the expense of a chauffeur is eliminated, and tires on an electric will yield a service of 15,000 miles.

Behind With Orders.

But the gasoline car manufacturers are not worrying. It is the agents who are—and simply because they cannot get from the factory all the cars they can sell. There is scarcely an agency on the row that has all the cars it ordered for open week. Some cars will be in today, some tomorrow, and some agents have no idea whether they will get their orders in during the week. Extraordinary business is sometimes exasperating, especially when a customer refuses to accept all reasonable explanations as to why his car has not been or cannot be delivered.

For the past year automobile designers have been busy creating body refinements. The stream-line body has been perfected until it is a thing of symmetry and beauty—and in many cars of luxury. The big, handsome limousines, such as the Dorris and Hudson, are equipped with electric telephones admirably arranged so that the occupant of the coach may talk to the chauffeur, and the chauffeur can't say a word in reply.

There are even electric cigar lighters in some of the convertible sedan cars, and arm rests, and wonderful broadcloth upholstery. The shades in the limousines, or coaches as one must call them now, are beautiful designs in silk. The interiors are eelctrically lighted. The extra seats in the seven-passenger cars are all of the disappearing type—that is, they fold snugly into the rear of the seat in front.

Cars with refinements such as these vary in price from $2750 to $6500, and some few run up as high as $10,000. But between $2750 and $6500 figures the seeker for motor luxury may have his choice of the finest products of the Packard, Cadillac, Hudson, Dorris, Locomobile, Pierce Arrow and other factories.

Much attention also has been paid to conveniences for the driver. The tendency has been to place all the lighting switches, horn buttons, gasoline control and other devices within easy access of the driver, so that all he has to do is to press a button or turn a switch to get almost any desired result.

Auxiliary Fuel System.

One car—the Mitchell—shows a primer pump, for pumping large quantities of raw gasoline direct into all six cylinders for starting. With the gasoline mixtures that are on the market, as substitutes for gasoline, there is much trouble in starting in fall and winter weather. A local inventive genius has devised an auxiliary fuel system, in which he carries a small quantity of No. 1 gasoline, which he introduces in a novel way into the cylinders for starting. When the motor starts going, he cuts off the high-grade gasoline and turns on the low-grade. Once started, most motors will use almost any grade of gasoline, even if it is heavily charged with kerosene.

The seat upholstery of nearly all cars has been changed from tufted style to pleated. The new style of upholstery is said to have two advantages—it is more easily cleaned, and more comfortable.

There is an endless variety of styles this year—and the purchaser may have his choice of colors—provided he is willing to pay the price of a new coat of paint of the desired shade. The Packard is offering 23 different body styles, the Cadillac 11, and most of the other companies have everything there is to be had in touring cars, four and five passenger roadsters, cabriolets, convertible sedans and limousines. Prices are no lower this year than last, except on the Ford, Chevrolet and some of the cheaper cars. There has been a slight increase in the price of some of the high-grade cars.

The new cars were all taken from the showrooms today for the big parade which made a tour of the business district.

Auto Show in February.

The agents wish it distinctly understood that there will be newer models of cars on the market later on, but these will not be exhibited until February, when a show will be held in the business center of St. Louis, if a showroom can be found, and if not, probably in the Coliseum.

"Automobile Row" will be open until 10:30 every night during the week. Some agents reported good sales yesterday, but most of the dealers said they were not expecting much busines until later in the week. Many country dealers are expected here before the show closes.

GETS LETTER AFTER 57 YEARS

Son of Man Missive Was Addressed to Receives It.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—Edwin R. Edenborn, a grain dealer, received a letter Saturday which was mailed to his father 57 years ago. The letter was written three years before the grain dealer was born. He believes it was mislaid and came to light only recently.

As the elder Edenborn has been dead several years and his office was removed more than 10 years ago, efforts of the postal authorities to deliver the letter were unsuccessful. By referring to a directory they found the son.

OIL WILL NOT PREVENT FOG

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Four reports issued by the United States hydrographic office from naval vessels along the Maine and Massachusetts coasts and on the Delaware River, show the oil distributed on the water is useless in diminishing or preventing fog. Off Marcus Hook, Pa., when there are a number of oil establishments, the United States ship Melville, on her trial, ran into a dense fog. Her captain reported that there was a thick film of oil on the water for miles around, but the ship was fogbound 12 hours.

1035-POUND HOG AT FAIR HERE IS NAMED 'A WONDER'

Judging of the Livestock and Agricultural Exhibits Is Begun.

The morning session of the second day of the St. Louis Agricultural Fair, at Maxwelton Park, on the St. Charles rock road, attracted only a scattering attendance, as yesterday. After noon, however, the attendance began increasing.

During the morning three tractors were being moved about in the machinery section, but no plowing was done. There was considerable amusement in watching the dipping of hogs into a tank from which they had to swim out. There was judging of Hampshire swine, poultry, agricultural products, Shropshire sheep and saddle horses.

The afternoon program included a saddlehorse show in front of the grand stand, a special exhibition of Belle Beach, a high-school mare; milk testing and dairy practice lecture; tractor demonstration, horses jumping hurdles, the "Agricultural Pageant" and the milking of cows by machinery.

The "Agricultural Pageant," which is a daily afternoon feature, is presented on the race course, in front of the grand stand, by about 200 high-school students. It is in four episodes, depicting the story of agriculture from the time Indians roamed the plains until today, when tractors are used on farms.

1035-Pound Hog on Exhibit.

In the hog tent, A. O. Boyd of Columbia, Mo., is exhibiting a 1035-pound hog named "A. Wonder." Dr. S. C. Nifong of 721 North King's highway, who raises hogs on a farm near Clayton, is showing the only pen of "Mulefoot" hogs.

W. J. Egan, superintendent of the horse events, estimates that horses valued at about $400,000 are being shown at the fair. These include entries from the stables of August A. Busch, Brown and Moore of St. Louis; O. J. Moore of Des Moines and Ball Brothers of Versailles, Ky.

Among the conveniences for the public are a branch postoffice station, at which information concerning the wrapping and posting of parcel post packages is given; a visiting nurse's tent, in charge of two nurses, where babies and children may be "checked" free; and a branch public library, where one may while away the time reading, or take a book home.

More Shows for "Pike."

The fair had the usual "pike," and this morning a traveling aggregation of sideshows arrived and pitched tents.

Thursday will be the biggest day of the fair.

Thursday will be St. Louis Derby day, and it is planned to make this the biggest day of the fair, in point of attendance. On Friday afternoon there will be a parade of new models of automobiles, driven by women. This will be known as the "auto fashion show." The fair will continue all week. Yesterday school children were admitted free, and there were about 3500 paid admissions.

FAIRBANKS DENIES HUGHES WANTS TO INVOLVE U. S. IN WAR

Takes Up Part of President's Speech as Theme for Address at Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 3.—Charles W. Fairbanks, Republican candidate for Vice President, speaking in the Auditorium Theater last night, described as a "base utterance" such charges as that made by President Wilson Saturday at Shadow Lawn, when he said the "certain prospect of Republican success" in November would be the use of force in Mexican and entanglement of this country in the embroilments of the European war.

"The suggestion which is now and then heard," Fairbanks said, "to the effect that Republican victory will tend to our entering the European war is a base utterance which the stress of a political campaign does not warrrant. Mr. Hughes as President will be regardful of peace with honor. He will firmly insist upon the observance of our international rights—not as a means of war—but as an assurance against it."

SUES TO GET HIS BRIDE

Bridegroom Alleges Wife Is Kept From Him by Parents.

A habeas corpus proceeding to obtain possession of his bride was filed in the East St. Louis City Court this morning by John Van Hemelen, 22 years old, a clerk, of East St. Louis. The bride formerly was Miss Agnes Naughton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Naughton of 916 South Eleventh street, East St. Louis. She is 17 years old. The couple were married Sept. 27 after eloping to Carlinville, Ill.

After they returned home and told of their marriage, the girl's parents refused to allow her to live with her husband. They said she could live with him after she became 18 years old if she wanted to. The case will be heard during the afternoon by Judge Vandeventer.

VILLAGE FOR INTERNED GERMANS

They Are Constructing It on 9-Acre Tract at Philadelphia Navy Yard.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.— A German village is being constructed by the interned sailors of the Prinz Eitel Frederich and the Kronprinz Wilhelm in a corner of the Philadelphia Navy Yard, where they will live under a guard of United States marines until the close of the war.

When the two vessels were convoyed here from Norfolk a tract of about nine acres was set aside for the 744 sailors along the back channel where their ships are anchored. A small church, a windmill and farm buildings are being erected and the men will organize a community patterned after a small town in Germany.

MARSHALL DRAWS BIG EAST ST. LOUIS CROWD

"If You Want War Vote the Republican Ticket," He Tells His Audience.

Vice President Marshall last night told one of the largest crowds ever assembled in East St. Louis to hear a political speech what he thought were the issues in this presidential campaign. "If you want war, vote the Republican ticket and join the army; if you want peace, vote for Woodrow Wilson," was the terse way in which he expressed his view.

The address was heard by about 1300 persons, packed into the auditorium of the city hall, which seats about 900, and several thousand more who were unable to get in waited on the lawn through an hour and a half of speaking to see the Vice President when he left the hall. Politicians and others said that this was the largest crowd at a political speaking in East St. Louis since Roosevelt spoke there two years ago.

The Vice President declared all the utterances of the Republican leaders indicate they want war. "If Hughes is elected," he said, "the first day of March, 1917, Theodore Roosevelt will commence a march on Berlin by way of Mexico." He spoke sarcastically of Roosevelt's efforts on behalf of the Progressive party four years ago and declared that the Colonel has deserted the Army of Armageddon at Bull Moose Run.

He defended the Adamson law passed by Congress to prevent the threatened railroad strike. He drew a parallel, saying that a man whose wife is dangerously ill is not going to stop and arbitrate the amount of the doctor's fee, letting his wife die in the meantime.

A short speech was made after Marshall's address by D. H. Mudge, Mayor of Edwardsville, who is a candidate for Congress against Congressman Rodenberg. Marshall went to Peoria, Ill., today and will speak there tonight.

GARRETSON CALLS ON LABORING MEN TO CAST VOTES FOR WILSON

Chief of Conductors Also Would Reelect Members of Congress Who Passed Adamson Law.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Under the title "Will Ye Serve God or Mammon," an editorial appears today in "The Railway Conductor," signed by A. B. Garretson, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, which says:

"The enactment of a nation-wide eight-hour law, applicable to train service employes, by the National Congress, on the recommendation of the President of the United States, means far more to men who labor than appears within the written lines thereof.

"If men desire to know what would have been the course pursued by the candiate for President on the Republican platform, all that is needed to furnish the information are the declarations made by that candidate on the public rostrum, those utterances making it perfectly apparent that had he been at the time administering the affairs of the commonwealth, no agency of the Government would have been utilized to either recognize the justness of the claim of the employes or to forward the realization thereof.

"Does not the self-interest of every man who labors call aloud to him to cast his vote to continue in office the President who has demonstrated not only his sympathy with the legitimate aspirations of men who toil, but that he possessed the courage to coin his belief into action, and also those members of the two houses of Congress, regardless of their party affiliation, who, acting in sympathy with the recommendation of the President and with an intelligent concept of what their action would mean, gave their vote in favor of enacting into law the statute as it now exists?"

Like a Boy at 50 Bubbling Over With Vitality—Taking Iron Dit It

Doctor says Nuxated Iron is greatest of all strength builders—Often increases the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous folks 200 per cent, in two weeks' time.

Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old and asked me to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of 20 and as full of vigor, vim and vitality as a young man; in fact, a young man he really was, notwithstanding his age. The secret, he said, was taking iron—nuxated iron had filled him with renewed life. At 20 he was in bad health; at 46 care-worn and nearly all in. Now at 50 a miracle of vitality and his face beaming with the buoyancy of youth. As I have said a hundred times over, iron is the greatest of all strength builders. If people would only throw away patent medicines and nauseous concoctions and take simple nuxated iron, I am convinced that the lives of thousands of persons might be saved, who now die every year from pneumonia, grippe, consumption, kidney, liver and heart trouble, etc. The real and true cause which started their diseases was nothing more nor less than a weakened condition brought on by lack of iron in the blood. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from 10 to 14 days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.—E. Sauer, M. D.

NOTE.—Nuxated Iron, recommended above by Dr. Sauer is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, rundown conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in 10 days' time. It is dispensed in this city by Judge & Dolph Drug Co., Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Johnson-Enderle-Pauley Drug Co., and all other druggists.—ADV.

This Will Remove Hair or Fuzzy Growths
(Toilet Tips)
A safe, certain method for ridding the skin of ugly, hairy growths is as follows: Mix a paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface about 2 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is entirely harmless and seldom requires repeating, but to avoid disappointment it is advisable to see that you get genuine delatone.—ADV.

FIVE DAYS LEFT TO RAISE $1200 FOR POOR BABIES

Adults Must Help Children if Post-Dispatch Fund's Purpose Is Realized.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Previously acknowledged	$3808 51
John Noyes	50
M. K.	25
Total	$3809 25

The end of the 1916 campaign by the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice League will come with the current week's close. That leaves but five days in which the $1200 necessary to complete the program of life-saving among the babes in congested district homes may be contributed by the public. It must come, too, mainly from adults if at all, for the children have neither the resources upon which to make requisition nor the time to give to organizing means to obtain them.

Of the total Fund accumulated up to this time the greater part by far has come through the zealous and intelligently directed energies of girls and boys. In an unusual number of their benefit enterprises the admission charge was only a penny, and rarely did it exceed 10 cents. That the young philanthropists thus got together nearly $4000 is convincing as to the widespread interest and effort among them during the vacation period of only about three months, much of it too warm for activity in that line.

What the children have thus accomplished becomes a powerful appeal to the grown people of the community to carry the work of preserving the lives and the health of the babies in the homes of the very poor to a splendid conclusion. It is due the youthful leaders in the cause as an encouragement to noble striving, even if the cause itself is to fail in arousing generous impulse.

The Walter Craig Musical Comedy Co., composed of girls and boys from six to 14 years old, added largely to its distinguished achievements last night, in its performance in the Union Theater, Union and Easton avenues, for the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund. With an exalted standard of excellence established through some years of entertaining, the company of little artists entered upon the undertaking last night with a resolution to more than equal previous records, and when the curtain fell upon the final number of the well-constructed program there was not one in the large audience who felt the least inclination to deny that the purpose had been fully achieved.

The music went with a dash and finish that attested the enthusiasm and capacity of the children as well as the qualification of their instructors, and the dances were amazing for their poetry of motion. With these distinctive features there was a vein of comedy, well-defined and persistent, that kept the audience in royal humor throughout.

PHYLLIS NEILSON-TERRY SINGS, LECTURES, ACTS

Beautiful Englishwoman Appears Briefly as Juliet at the Columbia.

Phyllis Neilson-Terry, a young Englishwoman of stately beauty, who is not too dignified to drop a charming curtsey, is appearing at the Columbia Theater this week in the triple role of singer, lecturer and actress. At yesterday's performance she sang "Ben Bolt" and the "Lovely Bird" air from "Pearl of Brazil" very acceptably. Then she announced that she was certain everyone in the audience knew the story of "Romeo and Juliet." Being so sure of this, she proceeded to tell the story, as preliminary to acting the part of Juliet in two scenes. These were the receiving of the phial from Friar Lawrence and the drinking of the potion in her bedchamber.

She succeeded thoroughly in holding the full attention and interest of the audience, which, just before, had been screaming with laughter at a clown. This is not said in disparagement of clown or audience, for it would be very difficult to keep from laughing at this particular clown, Bert Melrose. His fall from a pyramid of tables relieved a considerable strain among those who had been divided between mirth and anxiety. Eddie Leonard and a banjo-picking trio perform a minstrel act, in which Leonard's rich voice is used to good advantage. Bonita and Lew Hearn have an act of the sort which the musical revues sometimes pilfer from the vaudeville stage.

EDITOR ACCUSED OF CONTEMPT

Arkansas Lumberman Who Signed Article Also Is Cited.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 3.—R. H. Adams, editor of the New Era, published at Benton, Ark., and B. Faist, president of a large lumber company of Benton, have been ordered before the Arkansas Supreme Court Monday to answer charges of contempt. It is charged an article reflecting on the honor of the court was published in the newspaper and signed by Faist.

As quoted in the court's order, the article contained the following: "These Judges know this law and yet decide against it. Is it a far guess to imagine their motives, with $40,000 involved? When a man demands and commands something which is plainly against the law and against common sense, this is proof conclusive that he is dishonest. Did the Supreme Court do this?"

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

FLUORSPAR SUPPLY INVOLVED IN LABOR FIGHT IN ILLINOIS

85 Per Cent of Steelflux Is Taken From Two Mines at Roseclare, Hardin County.

RIOTING HAS OCCURRED

Trouble Caused by Attempt to Organize Workers Into a Union.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 3.—That 85 per cent of the world's supply of fluorspar, used in the manufacture of steel as a flux to separate impurities from the product, is involved in the contest between union miners and employers at Rosiclare, Ill., has been revealed by Gov. Dunne's investigation of the troubles in that out-of-the-way village. The Governor has learned that there are two mines there, the larger owned by the Rosiclare head of the Fluorspar Mining Co., which corporation is controlled by the John R. McLean estate, and the other owned by the Fairview Fluorspar Mining Co. The product of these workings goes to steel mills in all parts of the country and also is used in the manufacture of glazed tile, enamels, opalescent glass and hydrofluoric acid.

Rosiclare is in Hardin County, at the very southern tip of the State. Until last May it was a sober, peaceful mining village, but within the last five months it has been torn by a bitter strife which has brought violence and bloodshed.

Starting first in the secret organization of some of the miners into a union, the trouble grew through the summer until union strikers, nonunion miners, citizens, merchants, officials and even residents of other parts of Hardin County were drawn into it.

Opposed to Union.

When it became known last May that union organizers were working among the spar miners, the two mining companies posted notices that they would not employ men belonging to a union. Twenty men immediately lost their positions. Others began joining the organization until 250 of the 500 miners employed at the two mines quit work.

Sheriff L. H. McGinnis of Hardin County swore in extra deputies, and soon after there was a night fight in the streets of Rosiclare in which one deputy Sheriff and three men, said to be nonunion miners, were wounded. Violence again broke out on the night of July 21 when there was a fusillade of shots. When the smoke had cleared, two nonunion miners and one union man were found in the streets wounded.

Twice Gov. Dunne has sent Assistant Adjutant-General Shand and James F. Morris, secretary of the State Mining Board, to Rosiclare to ascertain for him the true conditions. After each investigation these men reported that all was quiet, but each time the trouble broke out anew within a few weeks after their departure.

The mine officials declare union men fired on the homes of nonunion workers and that the latter were intimidated, threatened and finally some of them beaten and their property damaged by the union men.

Some Get $10 a Day.

They argue that the working conditions at the mines are of the best, that the men are paid from $1.75 a day, given to old men and boys who work on top, to as high as $10 a day to the miners beneath the ground; that conditions at the mines are sanitary as evidenced by rest rooms and shower baths; that for a quarter of a century prior to the coming of the union organizers the miners were contented, peaceful and prosperous, and they point to 40 new homes built by miners with money earned by digging fluorspar.

On the other hand union officials declare that because the men sought to exercise the right of forming a union, they were summarily dismissed; that they were driven from their homes and from Rosiclare by armed guards employed by the mine companies; that the Mayor and two trustees of the village were forced to resign because they attempted to protect the miners, and that they have been denied the right of assemblage and free speech.

The two mines produce more than 100,000 tons of fluorspar a year. It is worth from $5 to $15 a ton, depending upon its quality and the market demand.

The miners, for the most part, are men reared on nearby farms. There are no foreigners in the community.

Rosiclare is 350 miles south of Chicago. To get to it from Central Illinois one must travel by rail, automobile and boat and the journey from Springfield requires an entire day from 4 a. m. to 5:30 p. m.

The mine officials say they will never permit a union among their employes.

NEW UNION M. E. CHURCH PASTOR

How to Get Rid of Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness or Head Noises

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels, you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms can be entirely overcome, in many instances, by the following treatment, which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost: Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double Strength). This will not cost you more than 75c. Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. A decided improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing becomes easy, while the distressing head noises, headache, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symtoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which are often overcome by this efficacious treatment. Nearly ninety per cent of all ear troubles are said to be directly caused by catarrh; therefore, there must be many people whose hearing can be restored by this simple home treatment.—ADV

EATING MEAT REGULARLY CLOGS THE KIDNEYS, CAUSING PAINS IN THE BACK

Don't fail to flush your Kidneys occasionally with a tablespoonful of harmless fruit Salts to avoid danger.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—ADV.

DERNBURG WRITES OF POSSIBLE RUTHLESS U-BOAT CAMPAIGN

Expresses Hope That American Would Take Reasonable View of It if It Should Come.

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—Hope that the United States "will take a more reasonable view should Germany be compelled again to renew ruthless submarine warfare," is expressed in a long article by Dr. Bernhard Dernburg in the Berliner Tageblatt.

The former special emissary to America hints that a full-fledged U-boat campaign may have to be resorted to "in order to force England to make peace." He adds that there is a gradual change of America's views in this respect, owing to "England's domineering attitude toward neutrals."

He justifies President Wilson's stand through the submarine controversy in the past, saying "a different attitude would deserve contempt and annihilation."

Garland's

Specializing in Suits at $25, $29.50 and 35

It is estimated that 75 per cent of the Suit business this Fall is and will continue to be in Suits to sell at or about these three prices. We sensed this condition several months in advance—when we were placing our orders for Fall and Winter Suits, and we bent every effort to produce the best Suits to be had, to sell at $25.00 to $35.00. The manufacturers co-operated with us, and now we submit them to your inspection and judgment.

Black Broadcloth Suit Seal trimmed $35.00

A complete line at each price, too. You will find everything from the severely tailored men's wear serges to the most seductively feminine chiffon broadcloth, velour or duvetyn, fur-trimmed novelty Suits.

There's a great deal of newness in every model—the long lines, the novelty collars, the new arrangements of braid, button and fur trimmings.

See our Checked Velour Suits—the broadcloths—the velvets—the serges, gabardines, poplins. Every good and favorite color is here, and we'll leave the question of value to you in whatever of the three lines you may favor.

All Suits Here Are Bought for "TYPES"

We are often asked how or why it is so few of our Suits require alterations?

—Well, here's how it is:

—All 36 size women are not alike.

—There are different types of 38s, 40s and so on through all size busts.

—So, when we place an order for a hundred Suits, or two or three hundred, we don't just say send us so many 36s and so many of the other different sizes.

—We know there are talls, slenders, short stouts, "stylish stouts," etc.

—We buy some styles only in big sizes, others only in small sizes.

—Some suits are bought for women with small hips and long bust lines,

—Some for short, stout women,

—Some for "stylish stouts" or the tall, large women,

—Some for tall breezy women,

—Others for little retiring elderly women and so on—and—

—Because of this system of buying for types, comparatively few suits here need alterations.

SMALL PART OF PROSPERITY DUE TO WAR, SCHWAB SAYS

Points Out That Domestic Business Is Profitable and Export Trade Should Grow.

OPTIMISTIC ON FUTURE

Declares There Will Be No Big Change in Business When Peace Comes.

That but a small part of the present prosperity of the United States is connected with the war munitions orders is the conclusion reached by Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of directors of the Bethlehem Steel Co. In a concise article prepared by Mr. Schwab for "System," a magazine of business, he maintains that "after all, it's peace orders that count most."

The job ahead of the country, Schwab says, is to find business of a profitable nature when Europe has stopped its war and people generally are in condition to pick and choose as to what and where they will buy, and he adds that he does not consider the task a very difficult one.

"The war orders from Europe are at the basis of our present prosperity. But it is a mistake to imagine that the major portion of our business is war-order business, or that the war-order business has called for manufacturing which is far outside the usual run of our peace-time trade," he writes.

Domestic Business Profitable.

Schwab says that the impression that, once the war closes, we shall have on our hands a great number of factories and a vast amount of machinery which are fitted only for the making of munitions, has been fostered by those who wish to create the impression that the steel and machine makers of the United States urge the proper military and naval equipment of the nation merely in order to keep the present machinery occupied after the close of the great conflict. The truth, he declares, is otherwise. He says:

"Even a casual inspection of the great volume of exports will demonstrate that, although the United States is shipping a larger proportion of fabricated articles to raw material than ever before, the bulk of these fabricated articles is drawn from the ordinary course of business. It is also found that, at present prices, domestic business is as profitable as foreign munitions business."

Referring to another prevailing idea, that those plant extensions which have been especially designed for munitions making, will be a dead loss upon the return of peace, the great steel maker asserts that the notion is false. "I do not expect any such sudden change in manufacturing conditions immediately upon the coming of peace," he says. Peace will affect only future and not present orders. Therefore, in so far as the steel trade is concerned, peace will bring no sudden change and there will be ample time and opportunity to transform gradually most of the purely munitions plants into ordinary machine factories.

"The real problem will not be faced until the war contracts begin to expire and the momentum of our prosperity to die out. This period, roughly speaking, will be within six months to a year after the close of the war. By that time we should have a new market to absorb the enormous production that the war orders and their consequent nation-wide prosperity have engendered.

Optimistic as to Future.

"I am entirely optimistic as to the future of the United States, provided the business of the nation and the business of the individual are managed on sound, forehanded, economic lines. We should be able not only to keep all that we have, but to get more."

Explaining the rising market at home, Schwab says it means simply, as always, that people are buying ahead of their needs in order to save money. When the market starts to decline buyers will hold back their purchases in the hope of buying cheaper "Business, however, is not generally overextended and most concerns have their loans paid and their houses in order. The domestic market is not today absorbing all that it can absorb. Factories are everywhere running at the limit and this discourages new construction, by high prices, scarcity of labor and long deliveries. Money is so abundant and labor is so scarce that it is sometimes difficult to translate money into the products of labor. We are a splendid market for any man who has goods and needs money."

The bringing of business and the Government into a sane relation is, in the mind of Schwab, the vital thing to do. He also believes that the country's supply of gold should be conserved, so that it may be available for loans to other nations to enable them to buy from us.

SEVEN HOUSES DESTROYED BY FIRE; CAUSE UNDER INQUIRY

Loss of $50,000 Entailed by Early Morning Blaze in Springfield, Ill.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. Oct. 3.—Fire early today destroyed seven houses in a residence district of Springfield causing a loss of $50,000. Strange stories told of the start of the fire caused the State Fire Marshal's office to begin an immediate investigation.

Those who saw the fire first declare that flames burst from the rear and from the front of Edna L. Atwood's house, simultaneously. Mrs. Atwood was standing on the front porch screaming. She could not be found after the fire to tell her story of its start.

Cane Sugar Price Again Goes Up.

MISS MARION BOND BREAKS ENGAGEMENT

Daughter of State Supreme Court Judge Was to Marry W. D. Crowell Oct. 17.

Miss Marion Bond of 20 North King's highway, daughter of Judge Henry W. Bond of the Missouri Supreme Court, has broken her engagement to William de Forest Crowell, an architect, who lives at the Racquet Club.

Mrs. Bond yesterday admitted that the engagement was broken, but she would not tell the reason. Reporters who called at the Bond apartment this morning were told that neither Mrs. Bond nor her daughter could be seen.

The engagement was announced Aug. 13 while the Bonds were at Narragansett Pier. Miss Bond had planned to be married Oct. 17 at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, and afterward she told friends that the wedding was to be at the Second Baptist Church. She explained that it had been decided to hold the wedding there, as the church had been built by the architectural firm of which Crowell is a member. Crowell, however, has been divorced, and it was understood that Rector Phillips of St. Peter's would not consent to officiating at the wedding.

Crowell had been attentive to Miss Bond since her debut two years ago. Miss Bond was graduated from Mary Institute and finished her education in Paris. Crowell is a graduate of the Boston Institute of Technology. He is about 40 years old. Miss Bond is 21.

The marriage of Miss Julia Crosby, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. William D. Crosby, to N. S. Chouteau Walsh, which was solemnized in the Catholic chapel of Our Lady of Lourdes in Brentmoor Park, was one of the most interesting weddings of the season. It was the union of two of St. Louis' oldest families, whose relatives number many persons of prominence. Both bride and bridegroom are descendants of Pierre Laclede, and their forbears include, the De Muns, Gratiots, Chouteaus, Chenies and Papins.

The bride made her debut here several seasons ago under the chaperonage of her aunt, Mrs. J. D. Perry Francis, at whose home she has been staying for several weeks.

Her mother, who was Miss Julia Smith of St. Louis and Maj. Crosby, who is in the Medical Corps, U. S. A., are both here for the wedding and will depart shortly for the Philippine Islands.

The arrangements for the nuptials were quite simple as Mr. Walsh's family are in mourning.

The ceremony was at 11:30 o'clock, the Rev. Father Francis O'Connor officiating.

The bride had her sister, Miss Isabelle Crosby, for her bridemaid, and the bridegroom's brother, Robert Barnes Walsh, was best man.

Afterward there was a wedding breakfast at the Francis residence, 4510 Maryland avenue, for the two immediate families.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Palms of Detroit and their daughter, Miss Josephine Dickson Palms, have come for the wedding and are visiting the bridegroom's father, Julius S. Walsh.

After their honeymoon trip, Mr. Walsh and his bride will be at home in the new Maryland apartments at Newstead and Maryland avenue.

The bridegroom is the brother of C. K. Dickson and Julius S. Walsh Jr., Mrs. William Maffitt and the late Mrs. John Savage Bates.

Miss Dorothy Yates, daughter of former Gov. Yates of Illinois, and Miss Corinne Batchelder of Peoria, Ill., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Wagoner of 4167 Lindell boulevard.

Former Gov. and Mrs. Yates, who have been here for several days, returned to their home in Springfield yesterday.

The Busy Bee Luncheon and Tea Rooms, 417 N. Seventh street, will be open during the fall and winter season until 8 o'clock p. m.. Special afternoon Teas served from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Albert A. Boettler of 5931 Waterman avenue has as her guest Miss Aubrey Sykes of Chicago, who will share the honors tomorrow at a tea Mrs. Boettler will give for Miss Anna Marie Dooley.

A number of entertainments have been planned in Mrs. Sykes' honor. They include a dinner at Sunset Hill Country Club tomorrow evening at the midweek dinner dance when Mrs. Edward Schopp will be hostess. This afternoon Mrs. George Kingsland will entertain with a small bridge party. Mrs. George A. Bayle Jr. will give a supper Friday evening. Mrs. Wastell Gray will have a party matinee at the Columbia Saturday afternoon and Mrs. Charles Elliott a luncheon at the M. A. A. Friday.

Mr. Jacob Mahler's classes in dancing, 4911 Washington bl., opens Oct. 16.

The William K. Stanard residence at the northeast corner of Lindell boulevard and Taylor avenue has been acquired by Julius S. Walsh Jr., who, following alterations, will make his home there. The Walshes now live at 4615 Berlin avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanard are occupying their new home in Brentmoor.

Col. and Mrs. Frank Drage of London, England, will soon arrive to visit Mr. and Mrs. Julius S. Walsh Jr. Col Drage is in charge of the British Government's depot at Lathrop, Mo., where 21,000 horses are corralled for the English army.

Mrs. M. Van Der Hack of Streator, Ill., and her son, Phillip, are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Haas, 5948 Berlin avenue. Dr. Van Der Hack will come later.

Mrs. Frederick M. Crunden, formerly of St. Louis, has returned from New York to spend the winter and is the guest of Mrs. Theodore C. Link of 628 North Spring avenue.

TESTIMONY AS TO TIME OF M'DANIEL MURDER

Two Neighbors Say They Heard Screams Before Prosecutor Left Home.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 3.—One of the vital bits of evidence in the McDaniel case from the standpoint of the prosecution was given late yesterday when Mrs. Wilhemina Hermann, a neighbor, testified before the grand jury that she heard Mrs. McDaniel utter a scream at 10:30 o'clock the night of the murder. Prosecutor Lockwood lays particular stress on his testimony because McDaniel declares he was summoned downtown by a fake phone call at 11:15 p. m. and that he left his wife well at that hour.

Mrs. Caroline Berghoff also testified before the grand jury that she heard Mrs. McDaniel scream shortly after 10:30. Mrs. Hermann, who lives within fifty feet of the room in which the murder occurred, told in detail to the grand jury her story of what she heard and saw on the night of the crime.

Her testimony is that about 10:30 she was startled by a scream from the McDaniel home. She recognized Mrs. McDaniel's voice and rushed to her window. All was silent in her neighbor's home when she reached the window. She waited several minutes and then went back to her book.

The scream made such an impression on her, however, that she was still up and awake an hour later when she heard the fusillade of shots that followed the return of McDaniel after his trip downtown in answer to the phone call that took him from his home.

For the first time since McDaniel has been in jail there was a county pay day yesterday, and the prosecutor drew his warrant through one of his deputies. He received his full monthly salary of $416.67, which is at the rate of $5000 a year. Since he has been in jail he has been handicapped, but he has been conducting the business of his office through his assistants, C. A. Porter, Duval Smith and Homer King, who consult him in jail.

GIRL SUES WHITE STAR LINE IN ST. LOUIS FOR INDIGNITIES

Says She Had Second Cabin Ticket, but Was Put in the Steerage.

A suit of Miss Ides Plestein, 19 years old, against the White Star Dominion Steamship Co., for $2000 damages for alleged indignities suffered in August, 1913, when she came from Europe to America on the steamship Teutonic went to trial today before a jury in Judge Jones' divison of the Circuit Court.

Miss Plestein's attorney, Charles E. Morrow, told the jury that he expected to prove that the girl, a native Russian, bought a second-class ticket from Liverpool to New York. She was then 16 years old, he said. The officers of the boat, he declared, put her in the steerage, despite the fact that she held a second-class ticket. In the steerage, he said, she suffered embarrassing indignities and insults from men passengers, and employes of the steamer and had to spend $25 extra to get food fit to eat.

The claims of mistreatment were denied by Edward d'Arcy, attorney for the deefndants. D'Arcy admitted the girl had a second-class ticket, but declared she went in the steerage of her own choice when she was told there was no more room in the second-class passage and that she would have to wait for another steamer.

BONDSMEN HAMPER POLICE

Twenty Suspects, Arrested Because of V. P. Crowds Freed.

The St. Louis police are chagrinned over the activities of professional bondsmen, who within the past few days have caused 20 police characters, arrested as a precaution to keep them off the streets Veiled Prophet's night, to be released on common law bonds.

The twentieth man to profit by such was Charles G. Miller, arrested yesterday at Tenth and Olive streets, by detectives rounding up professional pickpockets. Within an hour after his arrest he was released on bond signed by James H. Miller, a Cass avenue saloon keeper, and approved by Judge Clark of the Court of Criminal Correction. The police say that Miller has a long police record as a pickpocket.

Hydroplane Flight of 250 Miles.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—A hydroaeroplane flight from Amityville, L. I., to this city, approximately 250 miles, was ended yesterday, when Capt. Leo A. Dewey, U. S. A., and Lawrence B. Sperry, an aviator of Brooklyn, N. Y., landed at the Charlestown navy yard. The flight began Saturday, but a heavy gale forced the aviators several hours later to alight on the sea off Block Island. They were rescued by a coast guard crew and continued their trip.

Cut; Can't Tell How.

A man who said that he was William Becker of 3900 Westminster place applied at the central dispensary last night to have a gash on his chin dressed. He had papers in his pockets bearing the name Edward M. Stanley and when questioned admitted that he was Edward M. Stanley, 24 years old, of 4952 Botanical avenue. He said he did not know how his chin had been cut. He was sent to the inebriate ward.

KANSAS CLAIMS LOWER TAX RATE THAN MISSOURI'S

That for Strictly State Purposes in Neighbor Commonwealth Given as 13 Cents.

TAXATION SYSTEM USED

Candidate Gardner Is Declared to Be Mistaken in Statement Comparing Rates.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 3.—Frederick D. Gardner, Democratic candidate for Governor of Missouri, is mistaken in his statement that the tax rate in Missouri is lower than in Kansas.

The Missouri tax rate for strictly State purposes is given at 15 cents on each $100 of valuation. In Kansas it has been 12½ cents on each $100 for several years, and in 1916, the taxes to be collected in November of this year, the rate is 13 cents, the highest rate ever collected in the State. The following table shows the total amounts of taxes collected for State and all municipal purposes during the past three years:

1913—State, $3,371,988; county, $7,022,728; city, $5,076,659; township, $3,607,208; school, $10,245,912; drainage, $159,388; total, $29,483,883.

1914—State, $3,381,787; county, $7,575,563; city, $5,451,201; township, $3,629,002; school, $10,792,487; drainage, $157,812; total, $30,988,122.

1915—State, $3,620,202; county, $8,537,711; city, $5,895,062; township, $4,309,728; school, $11,288,378; drainage, $198,466; total, $33,849,567.

The taxes to be collected for State purposes in 1916, which will be used to pay State expenses in 1917, are slightly less than three and three-quarter million dollars. The total taxes for the municipal subdivisions has not been made up, as not all the local levies have been reported.

What State Taxes Pay.

The State taxes are expended for purely State purposes. They pay the salaries and expenses of all State officers and departments, the expenses and salaries of all the State schools and charitable and penal institutions. The schools and institutions have some fee accounts, from the sale of farm produce and the payment of tuition in the schools and the support of private patients in the institutions, but these accounts are small.

The county taxes pay the salaries and expenses of the county officers and departments, maintenance of the jails and county farms, good roads and bridge accounts and similar expenses.

The city taxes pay the same class of expenses within the cities alone, not including paving, sewer and similar public improvements, which are paid for by special improvement taxes assessed directly against the property. The city tax pays the interest and the sinking funds on bonds for water and light plants and the city general share of public improvements, like street intersections.

The township tax is chiefly a road tax.

The school tax is used for school purposes only.

The drainage tax is strictly a district tax, being assessed directly on the property directly benefited by the drainage project.

"There is no system of subventions in Kansas," said S. T. Howe, chairman of the State Tax Commission. "That is, the State does not raise money by taxation for the purpose of distributting a portion thereof to the minor political subdivisions, the State tax levy being solely for State purposes.

"In Kansas the personal property that gets upon the roll is assessed at its actual money value. Of course, more property of the kind escapes taxation than is taxed, because, in the nature of things, property that is subject to taxation only when the owner permits it to be done, will be omitted from the tax roll in large amounts, but this is undoubtedly true of other jurisdictions as well as of Kansas.

"City real estate is assessed very closely at its actual value in money. It is probable that farm lands are not assessed so high relatively as personal property and city real estate. Public service corporation property is also assessed at its actual value in money.

"The State tax rate in Kansas for the three years mentioned was 12½ cents per hundred dollars of assessment. The average rate of taxation in the State for all purposes for the year 1913 was .01048995, for the year 1914 .01103845 and for 1915 .01171334. The rates vary from approximately one-half of 1 per cent in rural districts to 2¼ per cent in the highest taxed city. This last city rate is exceptional, most of the city rates being below 20 mills."

Atchison, Leavenworth and Kansas City, Kan., are the highest taxed cities in Kansas. The total rate in these cities, including state, county, city and school taxes, is all ctly over $2 on each $100 of valuation. The highest rate is in Kansas City, where there is a heavy drainage tax because of the improvement work along the Kaw River. There are many Kansas counties where the total tax rate for all purposes does not reach $1 on $100 of assessment, and in many rural districts without city or drainage taxes the rate is below 50 cents.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Good Lawyer Bad Case.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Your recent editorial, entitled "Reasons for Wilson's Defeat," is one of the most aptly put arguments in defense of Wilson's administration that I have either read or heard, and is so presented that the average mind can catch the pith and point of the argument.

After having watched the course pursued by Judge Hughes in his campaign across the nation, it is evident that he is a good lawyer and is conducting himself in the prosecution of his ambition just as any good lawyer is forced to do when he has a bad client and a desperate cause. He avoids the main issue and makes an effort to attract attention to extraneous points, but in our opinion he is failing to befog the great jury which is soon to pass upon his case. Very truly yours,

O. F. MUNGER.

A Word to the Wise.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

"Dulce est desipere in loco." If there is any truth in the foregoing sentence Mr. Hughes must be having the time of his life. Since his nomination he has addressed numerous audiences and only once has he made himself clear in regard to the policy he would pursue if he were elected to the highest office in the land.

This startling information was emitted on one of his hammer-throwing eulogies when he stated his remedy for the Mexican situation, to-wit: "Litem lite resolvere." This being his Mexican motto, and blood-boiling Teddy. This chief on his advisory board, what else could he do but pursue the same course with Germany, England, et al.? If Hughes is elected, Teddy will have to be rewarded, which assures us of four years of 1907 prosperity.

One term of unadulterated American rule, "Non sibi, sed Patriae," by Woodrow Wilson is too short. Fame semper vivat.

T. M.

MR. HAWES' CANDIDACY.

The substitution of a man of such great ability and force as Harry B. Hawes for "Fish" McAdams as a St. Louis Representative in the State Legislature seems so pleasing from the standpoint of possibility of service that there ought not to be cavil over it. But there are circumstances in connection with the man and his record which suggest question.

As a young man Mr. Hawes filled a very large place in St. Louis politics. He won the title of boss. He beat the biggest and worst Democratic boss that St. Louis ever had. He became head of the Police Department. It was a time when machine bossism was rampant; when the police were in politics and all sorts of political offenses were regarded as conventional means of winning party victories. The school was bad and Mr. Hawes stood for much that was wrong that has been in large measure eliminated since his day of party leadership.

On the other hand, he did good things. He helped to put in office men who did excellent work, notably Rolla Wells and Joseph W. Folk. His defeat for the governorship nomination by Folk ended his active career in politics.

Again, Mr. Hawes, by reason of his attorneyship for Mr. August A. Busch and his vigorous leadership of the anti-prohibiton forces, has earned criticism as a representative of brewery interests and bears much of the prejudice in the public mind against any connection between politics and liquor interests. He has earned it in a larger share than others entitled to it, on account of his force and gifts of leadership.

Out of office, he has contributed valuable service to St. Louis and the State. He did more than any other man to save Missouri from prohibition. He led and won a brilliant campaign for home rule in the State Legislature. He contributed much to organizing the recent successful campaign for good roads and to the winning of the good roads bond issues in St. Louis and other counties. He has ably supported movements for legislation in behalf of St. Louis business and to create better relations between the city and country.

Mr. Hawes has chosen a small office for re-entrance into active politics—small but important—an office which can be made as useful as the character, ability and purpose of the man permit.

If Mr. Hawes will sincerely and single-heartedly follow the program he outlines, thrusting aside special interests and devoting himself to obtaining sound legislation on good roads and other progressive lines, he can make himself a tower of strength in the Legislature for both the city and State. The possibilities of disservice are as great. His record and his future lie in his own hands.

We have failed to solve the ashes problem. Is there really any hope for a garbage problem solution?

CAPT. BRUNER'S OFFENSE.

Capt. John Bruner, for 25 years an employe of the State prison and described as one of the most efficient members of its force, has been dismissed by Warden McClung. The cause assigned by the Warden is that the Captain criticised the management of the prison.

Mr. Bruner's courage and readiness have made him a sort of specialist in preventing the escape of convicts or recapturing them after they have made their escape. It appears from his explanation that his criticisms were those of one on the inside who seeks an improvement in methods rather than of one prompted by disloyalty to the institution's head.

If what he did was an offense, he is numbered with a very numerous and highly respectable class of offenders. Practically everybody in Missouri is criticising the penitentiary. We may believe that the State will be deprived for only a short period of his experienced services. A new administration in the Governor's office will mean little to the people unless it is of such spirit and sympathies as to bring about a revolution in prison policies and substitute intelligence and humanity for the present unsatisfactory management.

Rockefeller is said to be a persistent joker, "bubbling with wit." If he would write a column of jokes every day for some enterprising newspaper, under his own name, it might add considerably to his savings, and every poor man would buy the paper.

CUTTING OUT MILK MIDDLEMEN.

New York City also had a milk strike, but up State there is something Missouri does not have, a strong Dairymen's League.

This league is now shipping 40,000 quarts of milk a day to New York and selling it without the agency or aid of the city distributing companies. A large amount of the milk is sold to grocers, who dispose of it to their customers, but the striking milk drivers are beginning to utilize this opportune supply on a large scale to obtain milk for distribution along their former routes.

This plan for cutting out one set of grasping middlemen is given organized support by a New York State official, for whom Missouri, unfortunately, has no counterpart—the Commissioner on Food. However, if the strike here continues, it suggests an effective way of fighting St. Louis' Milk Trust. Under the system followed by some of the local distributing companies about all they do is to furnish the milk. The drivers solicited new customers, kept the accounts, made the collections and were forced to assume responsibility for lost bottles and bad debts. With a reliable independent supply of milk, why could not many of the drivers cut off permanently all relations with their former employers and assume themselves the work of supplying their routes?

The powerful local Milk Trust has already shown evidence of collusive policies, which in the case of some other concerns attracted the suspicious attention of the public authorities.

SAVING $1,600,000 IN ONE DAY.

Charles M. Talbert, Director of Streets and Sewers, declares after a tour of inspection that St. Louis could save $100,000 a year on its garbage disposal methods. Allan W. Pinkerton, penologist and thief-catcher, says that he could give St. Louis a more efficient system of police protection than the present for $500,000 a year, making a saving of $1,500,000 a year possible.

So we have in one day suggestions for a saving of $1,600,000 a year to St. Louis taxpayers. Adding the $1,200,000 which Tom Rogers says could easily be saved in salaries and wages at our overmanned city hall, we have $2,800,000 which might be kept in the pockets of the people or devoted to physical betterments of which the city is greatly in need.

Unfortunately, this is only a theoretical saving. Practically the possibility of rescuing any sum even approximating this large total from the intricate, tax-consuming machinery of city government will give rise to no illusions in the minds of persons familiar with public affairs.

However, some of Mr. Pinkerton's ideas would have value for increasing the usefulness of the Police Department as at present organized, even if they would not avail for reducing its personnel and cost. His suggestion for placing policemen on duty in pairs and moving them in motor vehicles only carries further the very idea with which the mounted squad was instituted. Two policemen in an auto cycle could cover 10 times as much territory and cover it better than a patrolman on foot.

Why in a motor age should the chief reliance for prevention of crime be a slow-plodding patrolman on a beat?

Are Teutonic Wilson haters to learn to love the Colonel?

SAM BLYTHE'S SATIRE.

Sam Blythe's "A Western Warwick" has been published in book form. At the time it was being printed as a serial in the Philadelphia Saturday Post, some readers saw in it a work having a possibility of attaining as great favor as "Coin's Financial School" of the 1896 campaign.

This expectation has not been realized, but the tale remains one of the most readable of satires on American politics. Its characters are disguised and its incidents altered and exaggerated from the real incidents on which they are founded, but the work has a flavor of truth and strikes many true notes. No greater expose on the old stand-pat technique of President-making has ever been written. Some of the material of which skillful use is made might have been drawn from the present campaign, so typical are its descriptions of methods by which the old guard fools the people. Its glimpses behind the scenes have instruction for thousands of unenlightened voters.

One of the issues of the present campaign is whether the old system of putting things over will continue to have efficacy. If it is shown that Mr. Hitchcock as Eastern Warwick can no longer do the work which the Warwick of the West did and that Mr. Hughes cannot successfully play the role which another ultra-respectable man played under a different name in the book, a sad crimp would be put in the fustian and sham of the old campaigning. Perhaps one of the greatest services rendered by the Wilson administration will be to restore some of the older conceptions of President-making and destroy some of the more dishonest and ridiculous devices for accelerating sentiment by showing that they are so played out as not to be worth while.

As a war machine the airships may have to be dropped. The ground guns now shoot up 20,000 feet.

AQUATIC CHARLIE CHAPLIN SERIES.

The luckiest of moving picture companies is one that included a submarine among its large assortment of "properties" and sent it in tow of a yacht to Miami, Fla., to render service in film manufacture. But watchful British cruisers patrolling the high seas sighted her, captured her as an undoubted German untersee bote far from home, and took her as a prize of war to Nassau.

Of course, we must assume that her rapid-fire camera was operating all the time, preserving a picture record of what was going on. When it is understood that the capture of the property boat was probably the origin of the late report that the merchant submarine Bremen had been overhauled and taken to the Bahamas, it can be seen how these pictures are going to add to the gayety of nations—a veritable aquatic Charlie Chaplin series.

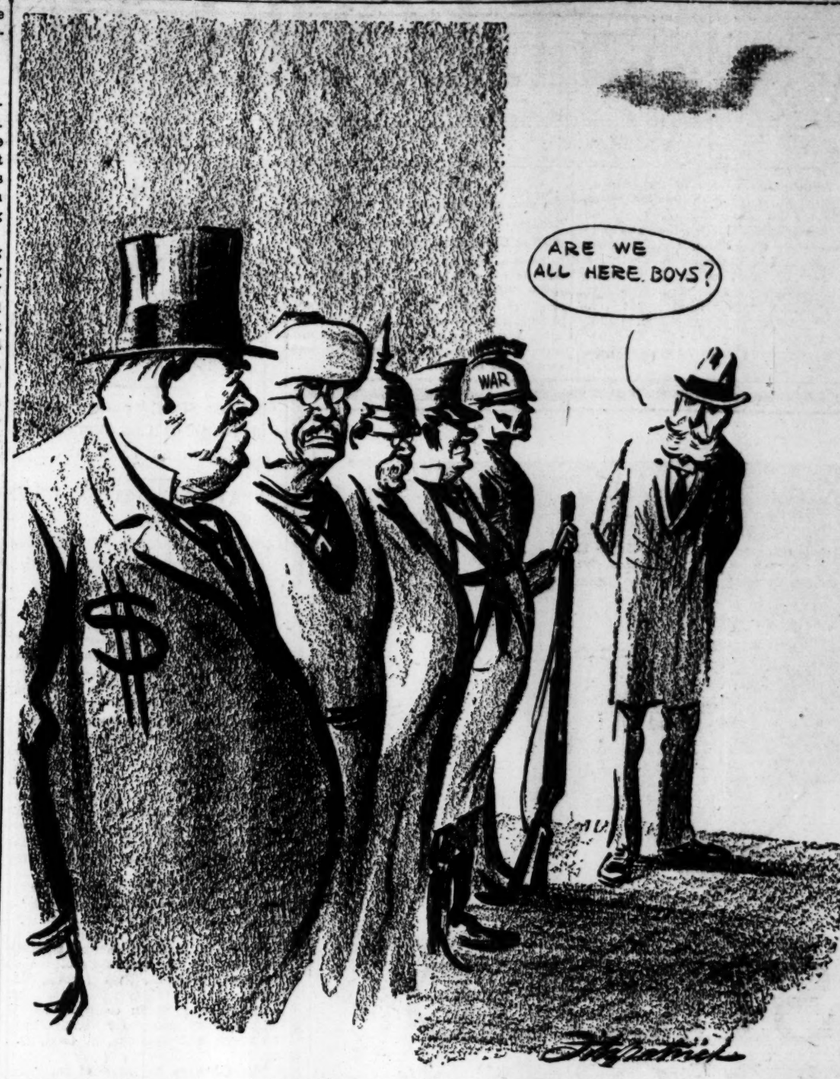

They may serve patriotic purposes. Other efforts to prevent British aggressiveness on neutral trading having failed, why not try laughing their too vigilant naval officers off the sea?

KNOTTY THEFT INSURANCE POINT.

The robber who stole $70 in dimes and nickels which Robert M. Campbell had life in a tall glass ought to be punished to the full extent of the law for this crime, and then he ought to get about three times as many years with no hope of pardon or parole for the knotty point he left behind for the courts. For, not wishing to carry around the burdensome and perhaps incriminating dimes and nickels, he went into the laundry next door on Vandeventer avenue and compelled Jim Lee at a pistol's point, which is even more dangerous than points of law, to exchange his subsidiary currency for full legal tender bills.

Jim has the silver and nickel, but to whom do the coins belong? Campbell says that this is the identical property stolen from him and that, under the law making stolen things recoverable wherever found, it must be given back to him. But in behalf of Jim it is contended that he is not a receiver of stolen goods, that his property was taken from him and property of another form substituted. No intent on the robber's part to steal from him could be proved, and, if Campbell gets the dimes and nickels back and suffers no loss, of what crime could the robber be punished, if caught?

If both carried theft insurance, which could collect under his policy—the man who was robbed, but suffers no loss in the event that he gets the coins back, or the man who was not robbed, but who will be out $70?

"DID YOU EVER SEE A MORE MOTLEY COMPANY?"—President Wilson.

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the POST-DISPATCH by Clark McAdams

MR. ANTWINE ON THE NEW REPUBLICAN DRIVE.

MR. ANTWINE'S eyes twinkled as he laid his paper aside.

"The Republicans are not going to give up without a struggle," he said. "I've just been reading about their new Western drive. They have loaded up a train with New York society women, and expect to capture all the women voters in the West. This train will make a grand tour of the equal suffrage States, wives of multi-millionaires will cast the spell of their wealth and beauty upon the throng, and the party will recover some of the ground lost in the tour made by Mr. Hughes.

"The wives and daughters of the different trusts will travel in such luxuriance as the railroads can provide, and will display their jewels and silks behind the speaker on public platforms. One can there see Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, and a pretty fair representation of wealth and fashion in general. The show will be free.

"Of course the Republicans have the Democrats here, for there are no multimillionaires to speak of in the Democratic party, and it could not get up a counter drive of this kind if it tried. The Republicans know this, and they are going to make the most of it. The ladies are all taking plenty of fine clothes, and when they come out in their Fifth avenue finery in places like Butte, you may be sure that the female vote is going to be stampeded.

"The significent thing about the plan is that Mrs. Hughes and Mr. Roosevelt's daughter, both of whom are to be on the train, are considered more valuable to the party in this crisis than either Mr. Hughes or the Colonel. In other words, the Republicans seem to have given up the male vote in the suffrage States. They have turned to the women!"

DREAMS.

THE world is veiled in the shrouds of night
And all is still—not e'en a breath
Of life stirs in the slumbering fields—
All is oblivion, still as death.

I hear arise from distant deeps
Soft footsteps lightly falling;
And voices sweet, celestially sweet,
Of angels gently calling.

I see illumined by the calm pole light
Of the stars and the moon in the sky.
Angelic forms arranged in white
In glorious splendor gliding by.

The world is wrapt in the veil of night,
And not a sound, not e'en a breath
Of life stirs in the sleeping fields—
And all is still—as still as death. V. I.

BEYOND.

THE spinning world rounds small from pole to pole
Since master spirit's eyes have scanned the whole;
The sun's blank stare of all-compelling light
And close day-skies disarm the winged soul;
But when star-fingers beckon through the night,
It lends impatient wings for Fancy's flight
Outside this universe, through vast unknown—
Whence worlds and suns and stars, out-lay God's own;
Crown realm, complete in glories raised to pole
Atlantis' fame and Revelations' scroll—
Beatitude, discharged of clay's last toll,
And music, sensate ears would catch, but fail;
Foreglimpse material powers cannot efface—
Impossible, were soul without some place!

HOW TO MAKE SOCIETY NEWS READABLE.

Dover Hills Reporter to Carrollton (Ill.) Patriot.

Last Thursday, Sept. 14, at 5 p. m., Miss Alta Gillet and Harry Cole bumped their heads against the matrimonial rail and made a solemn vow that they would hereafter eat out of the same trough. They headed for the Baptist parsonage in Carrollton, where Rev. Mundell made a few remarks that made the young couple both one and the same thing, and only one ticket will be required to admit them to the Greene County Fair—on the first day. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gillet of Linder, a graduate of Carrollton High School, and is the fifth girl to leave the parental roof to build up homes of their own. The groom is an industrious and hustling young farmer from Greenfield, and has the reputation of bringing home the "bacon." In the evening a large number of invited guests assembled at the bride's home, where the handshaking and footshaking continued until a late hour. They will reside on a farm near Greenfield.

THE WHITE HOUSE KNOCKER.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

BEAUTY CULTURE.

JACK.—If blackheads are prominent you can force them to the surface with a watch key and apply hydrozone, which will sizzle them away. Wiping face with diluted alcohol will often remove tiny blackheads. For pimples, careful diet, pure air, deep breathing, exercise.

HEALTH HINTS.

ANXIOUS.—Scaling of your boy's skin is probably the result of fever.

MRS. R. S.—Physician will test and let you know your blood pressure. See Answers Sep. 5, this office. Talk with a doctor about your symptoms.

FATHER.—Difficulty of breathing through the nose is the most pronounced symptom of adenoids. Before you try to build up your child's health have him examined and see that there are no adenoids.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

SWEET POTATOES.—We don't know what made your sweet potatoes burst and throw fragments. Perhaps there was gas in the oven. To bake sweet potatoes: Take them of same size, wash well, cut off ends, put them into oven, turn them once when half done, bake slowly. Set a small basin of water in oven while baking. When done serve in jackets or peel and slice, put a layer on bottom of shallow baking dish, then a few bits of butter, a little sugar, a slight seasoning of nutmeg or cinnamon, another layer of potatoes and seasoning, and so on. Set in oven until hot and serve.

ROCK TOP.—Rhubarb wine: 12 pounds rhubarb crushed, 2 gallons water and 3 pounds granulated sugar. Place the crushed rhubarb and water in large stone jar; cover and let stand in cool place one week; stir frequently. At end of that time, strain and add the sugar. Place the mixture in jar and let stand until fermentation ceases. Strain into keg, bung tightly and keep nine months. Then bottle.

MOTHS.—To keep moths out of carpet, strong pepper, black or red, is used. Thorough salting has also been effective, but light carpets might be injured. One essential to cleaning a carpet with salt is a dry, clean day. The salt should be swept out carefully—once against the nap, once with it. Marion Harland says of her experience with a Brussels: It had been packed away—securely, as we thought—while we were a year abroad. When the wrappings were undone the handsome carpet seemed to be literally alive with the invaders. I had it refolded—not to drop eggs or larvae in the house—and taken out upon the lawn. There it was strewn deep with fine salt and left in the sun for the rest of the day. At sunset it was swept twice—and hard. The dead and dying moths were deposited in long rolls upon the grass by the broom. The carpet was again coated with salt and left overnight in the barn. Next day it had a third and thorough sweeping. Finally it was carried to a vacant room and saturated with gasoline. The room was kept closed for two days before the carpet was laid again on the grass until the odor had evaporated. That was 10 years ago. The carpet is still in use in the bedroom of a country cottage which is closed from November to May, but not a sign of a moth has been seen in it since.

LAW POINTS.

INTERESTED.—An idea merely is unpatentable. The Patent Office must be shown by some visible form.

TOM.—You and associates could not use the name mentioned, for the reason that there is, as you know, now an incorporated company by such name.

M. P.—If wife secure the divorce for fault of husband she would not thereby lose her dower in any real estate he may own; but if he secure the same for her fault she is barred of such.

BUSINESS.—Custom is for landlord to allow each flat tenant equal rights to use of basement and laundry; if any special rights have been granted a certain tenant, owner can inform you.

WIDOW AND CHILD.—From what can be ascertained from your statement, the partition suit cannot be stopped—unless all heirs (excluding one who sold) agree; further we cannot say, as just what may be done depends upon the circumstances of the case.

HODIAMONT.—The law requires one month (not 30 days) written notice be given tenant on landlord desiring possession; therefore, if your rent was due say Sep. 2, in order to constitute a full month the notice to be valid must have been delivered Sep. 1. It having been delivered on rent day (2d) and therefore void, unless another is delivered prior to Oct. 2 you would in that event be good to stay for 2 months; but remember, that unless you pay the rent you can be sued out at once.

MISCELLANEOUS.

M. A. C.—See addresses this office.

MAGDALENA.—See Answers Sep. 12 and 19, this office.

RH.—Dry-finish blackboard may be had by mixing the paint with turpentine instead of oil.

F. H. C.—In V. P. gallery you may wear light gray taffeta skirt and white georgette crepe waist. On the floor you must wear evening gown.

PAINTER.—The figures published were the Government's, published in August, 1915. We make way for your statement that painters are paid 60 cents an hour and make 62½ cents an hour and $27.50 per week, full time.

MARIE.—Cat distemper: Hold head over vapor of spoonful turpentine in pint boiling water. Repeat two or three times daily. Germans whose cat coughed and sneezed says: It was caused by worms. I saw him cough up one more than a foot long. Cure is turpentine. I gave in doses of 3 drops each in cooked meat.

HOOSIER.—We find these statements: A Parisienne allowed herself to be kissed by a clean shaven and then by a bearded man. After each salute her mouth was stroked with a sterilized brush. The microbes thus collected were deposited in a test tube and allowed to incubate four days. It was shown that the clean-shaven man had deposited a small quantity of harmless particles. His rival's kiss had colonized the lady's lips with the bacilli of tuberculosis, diphtheria, pneumonia and numerous other unpleasant microbes. Shaving the upper lip has long been known to affect the eyes. Now a Vienna specialist asserts that the increase of late in diseases of the respiratory organs is due to the growing practice among men of going clean-shaven.

P.—In 1890, St. Louis birth rate 22.1 per thousand; in 1900, 18.7; in 1904, 17.5; in 1906, 18.3. Before the big war it was figured that in 2016, if the present rate of decline in the birth rate continues, no children will be born in England, France or Germany; that if the size of families of college graduates decreases as in the last century students of 1925 and thereafter will have no children. (For lists of churches, breweries, amusements, theaters, cemeteries, see city directory, in any drug store.) St. Louis 1915 death rate per 1000, figured on the basis of a total population of 788,000, was 13.1 per cent. The death rate per 1000, figured on a total population of 773,000, during 1914, was 14.3 per cent. Heaviest mortality in St. Louis last year was in March and December. The latter was the heaviest, with a total of 1043, and 1025 persons died during March.

A VOTER.—There are two ways by which a Republican may vote for Wilson for President and otherwise the straight Republican ticket. First, erase the names of the 13 Republican electors on the Republican ballot and write in the names of the 13 Democratic electors. You will find the names of the Democratic electors on the Democratic ballot which will be handed to you in the group of ballots. Second: You may use the Democratic ballot, having thereon the names of the Democratic or Wilson electors. Then erase the names of all the other Democratic candidates and write in the names of the Republican candidates, which you will find on the Republican ballot which will be handed to you. After preparing your ballot, compare it carefully with the unused ballot to see that you have made no errors.

The Baby's Bank

Story of the original way chosen by an old uncle to leave his money to those he desired should have it.

By James E. Storey.

"THE mean old hunks!" uttered John Banks, father of pretty Nellie Mason, his daughter, two years a wife, three months a mother.

"Don't be cross, pa," pleaded Nellie, "it's a pleasure to have Darrell's uncle even recognize us. It's broken the ice, anyway. Poor, lonesome old man, I suppose the lack of friends has soured him."

"H'm! He's a close-fisted old miser, that's what Zekiel Crane is!" snorted Mr. Banks and swung away, disgusted and indignant.

Nellie smiled sweetly at a big wooden baby's savings bank standing on a little table in the corner of the room. That had been the delayed gift of her husband's uncle to little Rossmore, their child. Nellie's father had bought a gold charm for the little one and Nellie's mother had donated a pretty outfit of dresses and slips. That morning Uncle Zekiel had hobbled over from his farm with the bank.

"Made it myself," he said quite proudly. "See—a sort of imitation of my old granary, with a cupola on the top of it. There's the chimney to put the pennies in," and he produced two and they clinked down into the receptacle. "You must save all I give and by the time Rossmore is of age there'll be quite a tidy sum."

And Nellie kissed the old man with sincere appreciation, for he had not been to see them since their wedding. When her husband came home she led him to the bank.

"Uncle Zekiel's present to baby," she said sweetly.

Uncle Zeke's Nemesis.

DARRELL MASON'S lips wrinkled at the corner in a quizzical way.

"A token of good will, anyway, dear," he observed. "Don't get sour over his miserly ways. He means well. It's that cousin of his, Luke Dunbar, who has come to live with him since I left, that has kept Uncle away and made him stingy."

"How, Darrell?" inquired Nellie, with wondering blue eyes.

"Well, Dunbar is a schemer and is after the old man's wealth. He is a domineering old fellow and somehow had got the old man under his thumb so that the poor old man is afraid to call his soul his own."

"I don't see how that can be," murmured Nellie.

"Why, it seems that Dunbar's father had a pretense of a claim to the old farm. It was thrown out of court twice, but the son has made uncle believe that he can bring a new suit and harass him and put him to expense. Uncle has such a horror of the law that he has agreed, I understand, to leave the farm to Dunbar when he dies."

"It should be yours, dear, as the nearest of kin," suggested Nellie.

"Oh, I don't covet it," declared Darrell lightly. "It always was a hard-scrabble tract. Besides, if Dunbar makes uncle's last days less lonely let him reap the reward."

"But I hear that Mr. Dunbar is not a very good man," intimated Nellie mildly.

"No, he isn't, for a fact," declared her husband bluntly. "I hear that he watches uncle closely so that he won't get rid of any stray cash, hoping to get that, too, when uncle dies. I think that is the reason why uncle hasn't come over to see us any more often. Lately, I learn, Dunbar has been carousing around the town drinking shops, so that probably gave uncle the opportunity to slip over and see us."

Uncle Zeke Dies.

THIS seemed to be true, for the very next day Mr. Crane put in a second appearance at the cottage. He was quite chipper and took baby Rossmore on his knee and chuckled over him, and then very ostentatiously dropped two more pennies into the bank.

Then he missed two days, came regularly for a week, and then got down to a system of coming alternate mornings. Darrell ascertained that the days he missed were those when Dunbar stayed at home to recover from the carouse of the evening previous.

Always the pennies were the contribution of their visitor, and Uncle Zekiel used to get a card and pencil and figure out what 2 cents would amount to in 21 years. Then he would slap his thigh and chuckle and add:

"Oh, there'll be quite enough to educate Rossmore, if I live long enough—and Dunbar lets me keep it up," he would add, with a grim look of mystery, and, at times, malice on his face.

Thus nearly two years passed away and one morning news came to the Mason home that Uncle Zekiel was dead. After the funeral a will was read that left the home to Dunbar.

"And nothing left for you, dear!" sighed Nellie.

"I hear the farm was all there was left," Admiral Darrell. "Well, Uncle Zekiel had two years of pleasure in the company of Rossmore and I think he really loved the dear little fellow."

In about a month Luke Dunbar had left the village, a disgusted, disappointed man. The farm was a poor one. He might have obtained a living from it and with care and work could have made it valuable, but he was a sluggard. He left town railing at "that old skinflint for spending all his ready cash and leaving him a barren old waste!"

It certainly was a mystery what had become of quite a sum Uncle Zekiel had once kept at the bank. The extravagant habits of Dunbar were blamed for this, however. He put the farm in the hands of an agent to sell for what it would bring, boasting "one royal good time when he got hold of the ready cash!"

The Baby's Fortune.

IT was a year later when Nellie and Darrell came into the house from weeding the garden.

"That precious child!" whatever has he got hold of now? exclaimed Nellie, as a banging, hammering sound echoed from the living room.

"The irreverent little rogue!" cried Darrell, as they came upon the young hopeful, Little Rossmore, on the floor, the old bank before him a hammer in his hand.

Old Uncle Zekiel's handwork was a mass of splinters. Scattered on the carpet were pennies, but also numerous bits of closely folded paper. Darrell picked one up. He unfolded it.

"A hundred-dollar bill!" he announced.

"Five hundred!" cried Nellie, as she unfolded another bank note. "How much?" she questioned, as Darrell had smoothed out nearly a hundred of those closely folded bits of opulence.

"More than $4000—not counting the pennies," announced Darrell.

"Baby's fortune!" cried Nellie. "Oh, Darrell! don't you see? Dear lovable old Uncle Zekiel made a pretense of the pennies, and bit by bith, without exciting suspicions of that spendthrift Dunbar, put all his money in the baby's bank!"

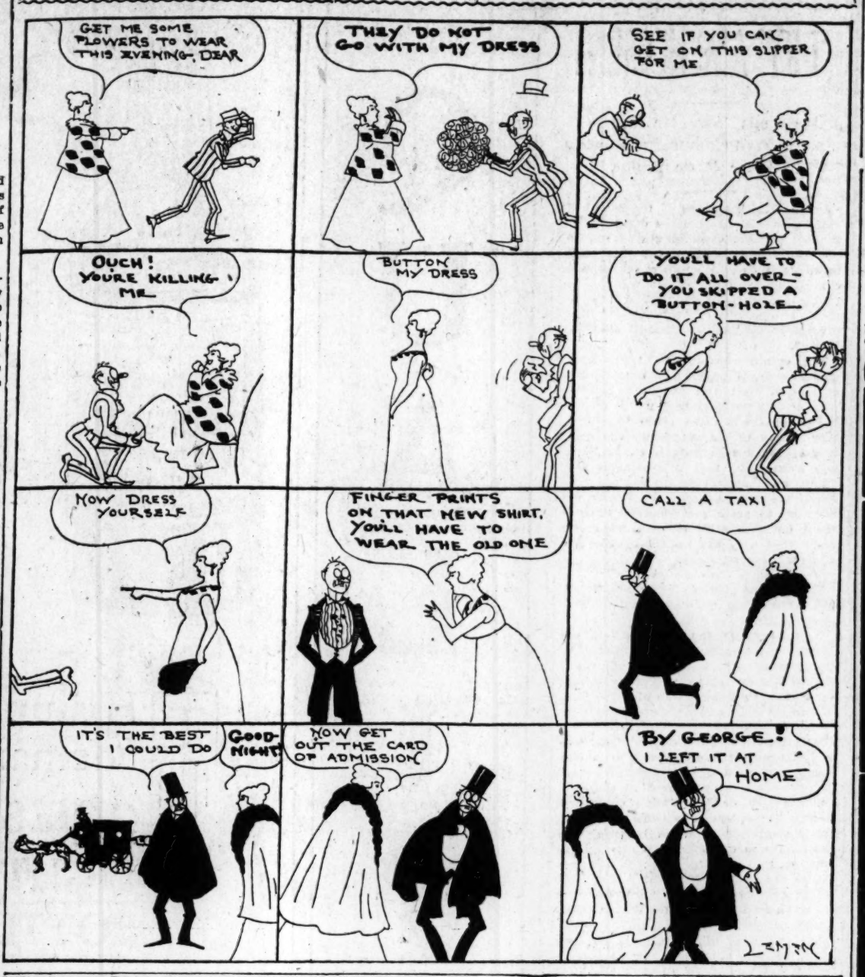

They used the money judiciously by purchasing the property Luke Dunbar was sacrificing—and made a real farm and a happy home of it.

Mr. Handy Husband on V.-P. Night

Drawn for the Post-Dispatch by J. R. Lemen.

Lithography 120 Years Old.

THE first successful example of the lithographic art was produced 120 years ago by Aloys Senefelder, a Bavarian, who produced a piece of music printed by this process. Senefelder was a composer, but he was too poor to bear the cost of having his works published. He then began to experiment with the hope of discovering some cheap method by which he could do the printing himself.

The lithographic process was suggested to him by his having made for his mother a memorandum of clothes to be sent to the washerwoman. He carelessly wrote this memorandum on a slab of stone, intending to copy it. As the stone lay before him he thought of trying the effect of applying printer's ink to the lines and thus take an impression. The experiment led to others, and in 1796 Senefelder produced a piece of music from lines drawn in slight relief on a slab of stone.

The inventor obtained a patent for his process in several of the German states, and labored to extend his art throughout Europe. Everywhere it met with favor, especially in France.

Household Hints.

TO clean wicker chairs, wash with salt and water, then rub as dry as possible and place in the open air to finish drying.

To clean a white felt hat—Mix magnesia to a paste with cold water. Allow to stand for a few minutes, then apply evenly to the hat with a brush. When the paste is dry brush off the magnesia with a clean stiff brush.

In olden times ivy bushes were hung over the doors of taverns as signboards, because the plant was sacred to Bacchus, the god of wine.

Bolivar Women Endorse "Outside" Treatment for Children's Colds

Instead of Dosing Delicate Little Stomachs They Recommend the External Treatment—Vap-O-Rub.

Mrs. M. J. Porter, and Mrs. J. Jacques, of Bolivar Mo., and Mrs. M. E. Ferrel, on Rural Route No. 2, like all intelligent mothers, believe internal medicines are bad for children, and yet cold troubles must have some kind of treatment. When Vick's Vap-O-Rub was introduced here from the South last season these ladies found it filled the need exactly. Vap-O-Rub is a salve, which, when applied to the warmth of the body, is vaporized by the body heat. These vapors, inhaled with each breath, carry the medication through the air passages to the lungs, and, in addition, Vick's is absorbed through the skin, relieving the tightness and soreness. This twofold action makes Vap-O-Rub useful for a wide variety of inflammations—from inflammations of the air passages and lungs, such as head colds, catarrh, asthmatic troubles, bronchitis and deep chest colds—down to inflammations of the skin and tissues, such as burns, bruises, stings, piles and muscular soreness.

Mrs. Porter says—"Vap-O-Rub is very fine for sore throat, rheumatism, etc. I take pleasure in recommending it."

Mrs. Jacques says—"I have used several bottles of Vick's Vap-O-Rub, and have found it better than internal medicines."

GRAVES' OPINION IN DISSENTING ON 'DRY' AMENDMENT

Judge Tells Why He Did Not Join in Writ Compelling Roach to Place It on Ballot.

Judge W. W. Graves of the Missouri Supreme Court has handed down a dissenting opinion, explaining why he did not join the majority of the court last Saturday in issuing a writ of mandamus compelling Secretary of State Roach to place the proposed prohibition amendment, submitted by initiative, upon the official ballot for the general election, Nov. 7.

The opinion covers 21 typewritten pages of legal paper and reaches the conclusion that the proposed amendment should not have been placed on the ballot for the reasons given by Secretary Roach in his answer to the petition of Charles E. Stokes, H. P. Faris and Orange J. Hill, who sought the mandamus. Judge Graves examines in detail the reasons given by Roach for refusing to place the proposed amendment on the ballot and attempts to show that they are upheld by the law and its interpretations.

Reasons Are Summarized.

The reasons given by Secretary Roach are summarized by Judge Graves as follows:

First, because the proposed amendment, in attempting to prohibit the transportation into the State of intoxicating liquors, deals with a subject matter which the Constitution of the United States, in giving Congress control over interstate commerce, has removed from the jurisdiction of State legislation; second, because the proposed amendment deals with two or more distinct subjects in attempting to prohibit the sale, manufacture or importation of intoxicating liquor, which is contrary to the State Constitution; third, because it is legislative in character and attempts to change the statutory law; fourth, because the body of the proposed amendment does not set out that it purports to be an amendment to the State Constitution.

Judge Graves takes up the last reason first, holding that the proposed amendment was improperly drawn. The title specifies that it is a proposed amendment to the Constitution of Missouri, but the body does not. Judge Graves thinks that under the provisions of the Constitution for the enactment of amendments, a proposal should set out in its body that it purports to be an amendment.

Nature of Roach's Office.

In a detailed discussion of the nature of the office of the Secretary of State, Judge Graves holds that the Secretary is a ministerial officer entitled to exercise discretion in the conduct of his office. From that the Judge concludes that Secretary Roach was not bound to place the proposed amendment on the ballot merely because it was properly initiated, but was authorized to accept or reject it at his discretion.

State's Power to Act.

Judge Graves holds that the Secretary of State should refuse to submit to the people any proposal of a matter upon which the Constitution of the United States forbids the states to legislate.

"The proposed measure now before us," Judge Graves says, "contains a subject matter that has been withdrawn absolutely from the control of the State. I am not saying that the people of Missouri, through the initiative, may not amend their Constitution so as to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors. This they can do. But the proposed measure now before us undertakes to regulate interstate commerce so far as intoxicating liquors are concerned, and this is an attempt by the State to assume control of a subject of legislative action over which the State has no control or power to act."

A little farther along the opinion says:

"The Secretary of State is not compelled to accept and place upon the ballot any proposition that may be petitioned for by the requisite number of voters. The proposition petitioned for must be a proper subject matter of State legislation. If the subject matter has been withdrawn from the legislative control of the State by the Federal Constitution, then our initiative amendment to the statutes passed in pursuance thereof contemplates that the Secretary of State may refuse to act, and the question is then for the courts."

Judge Graves does not agree with the prohibition leaders' contention that such refusal by the Secretary of State amounts to an attempt by him to pass upon the constitutionality of a law. "This he does not do, for the good reason that no law is before him to be passed upon," Judge Graves says. "He only has before him a petition of voters asking that the proposed measure be placed upon the official ballot. It is far from being a law. The people do not legislate, under the initiative, until they cast their ballots."

Finally, Judge Graves holds that that part of the State Constitution which says "proposed amendments shall be submitted to a vote of the people, each amendment separately," precludes the lawful submission of the proposed prohibition amendment in the form in which it was drawn.

In the introduction, Judge Graves says his reasons were hurriedly written down, but that he preferred it so rather than have his opinion go down after the ruling of the court had been handed down. The majority of the court, in issuing a mandamus order, did not hand down a written opinion.

MISS KAISER EASILY QUALIFIES WITH A 96

Missouri State Champion Is Ten Strokes Over Low Medal Score at Belmont.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—Miss Laurie Kaiser of St. Louis, holder of the Missouri State title, but representing the Flossmoor Club of Chicago, easily qualified yesterday in the women's annual national golf tournament at the Belmont Spring Country Club, turning a 96. The low qualifying score was an 86, but two players went aobve the 100 mark and yet seeped into the championship class. Miss Kaiser today is paired with Mrs. G. W. Roope of Braeburn, for the first round of match play.

The 6000-yard Belmont course was in fine condition yesterday, and the field that started in the qualifying round was as good as any that ever competed for the title. It brought back events of earlier days, when Mrs. J. V. Hurd of Pittsburg, formerly Miss Dorothy Campbell, and one-time champion of the United States, Great Britain and Canada, played with her old consistency and led the field with 86, her outward journey being 42 and her return 44.

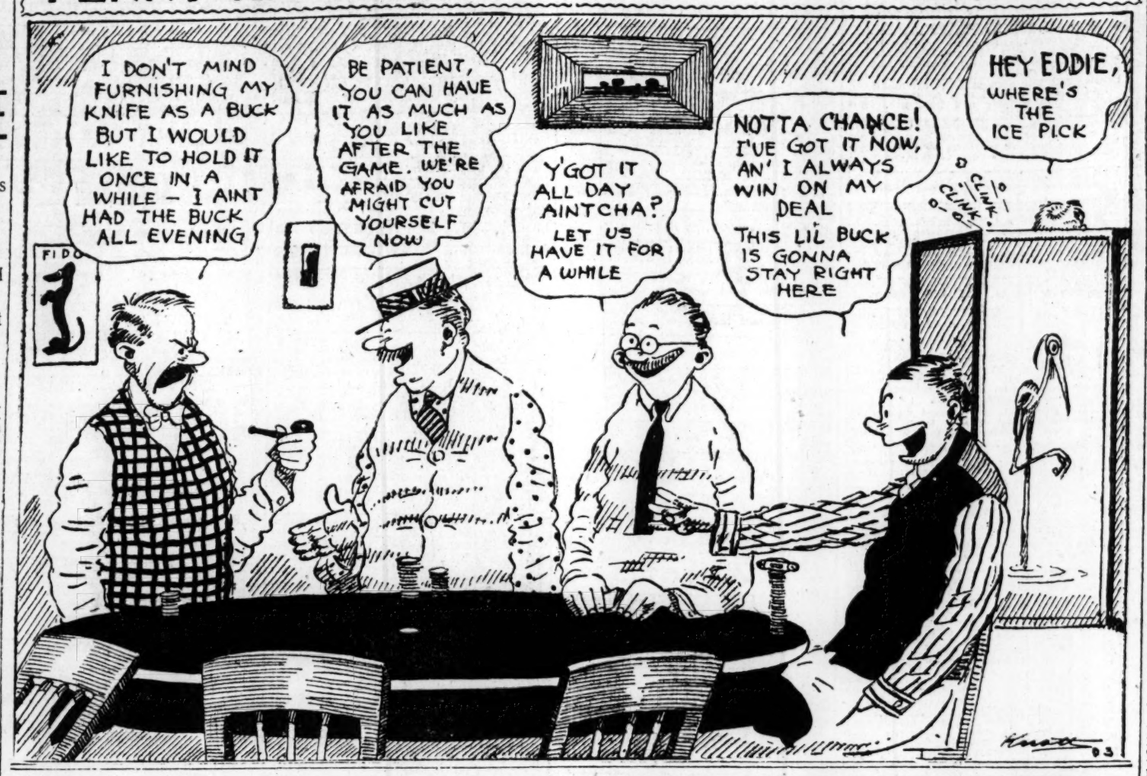

BYRON AND ORTH TO UMPIRE AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Byron and Orth were appointed today by President Tener of the National League to umpire in the city series between the local Americans and Nationals.

Ben Millers Play Detroit.

The Ben Millers, last year's champions of the St. Louis Soccer League, will play the Americans of Detroit in Detroit next Sunday, it was announced yesterday by Manager Pete Ratican. This will be the opening game of the season for any of the local elevens. The Innisfail Hurling Club also will make the trip to oppose a Detroit team.

PENNY ANTE: With a "Buck" — By Jean Knott

ONLY TWO VETERANS MISSING AT C. B. C.

Murphy and Quinn, Graduate Stars, Will Help Coach This Year's Eleven.

Although Christian Brothers' College is again without a paid football coach, the enthusiasts at the Easton avenue school expect to have as good, if not a better team, than last year. All of the regulars of 1915, with the exception of Paul Murphy and Billy Quinn, have returned, while their places will be capably filled by new men coming from the academic elevens of last year.

The two Essman brothers, Walter and Captain Charley, are coaching the team, assisted by Paul Murphy and Billy Quinn and several other old alumni members. These men agreed to do this in order to keep the college game at the school.

The team has been working out every night for the past two weeks and although only one game is definitely settled to date, that with Hoover Institute in Taylorville, Ill., on Oct. 20, others will be arranged shortly. The Kirksville Osteopaths may be played in Kirksville next Saturday if they can arrange their games to accommodate the locals. Other battles that are almost certain are with Southern Illinois Normal and Cape Girardeau.

Heavy Team Promised.

This year's purple and gold eleven will be a heavy one, averaging between 185 and 190 pounds. Of the new men, Frank Miles, an end; Lyons, a halfback, who stands 6 feet 5 and weighs 190 pounds; Robson and Reilly, a quarterback, are showing up in great style.

Lawrence Reilly is getting back into the game after an absence of several years. He was injured playing baseball and had to quit owing to trouble with his legs. He is O K now, and is expected to be the team's regular quarterback and at the school is said to be even better than Paul Murphy, who ran the team last year. A few seasons ago, when he was in his third year of high school work, he was picked out on the varsity squad. Robson, if he makes the team, will strengthen the kicking department.

Essman Boys on Hand.

Capt. Charley and Walter Essman will again be on duty in the line; Danny Murphy, who in a game last year ran 100 yards for a touchdown, will again play center; Long will be at one end, while Paul Miles, if the injury he received in a baseball game last Sunday mends, will take care of the other.

For backfield material, left over from last year, there will be McCracken and Hart, full backs and Willis, the star half back.

Between 35 and 40 candidates report for practice every night and the coaches have no trouble lining up two teams for scrimmage work.

SOLDAN AND M'KINLEY LEAD I. L. NET TOURNEY

Soldan and McKinley got off to a running start in the interscholastic tennis tournament on the Triple A courts in Forest Park yesterday by winning three out of four matches from Yeatman and Central, respectively. The players ranked No. 1 on both the Yeatman and Central teams were the only winners for their teams.

The feature match of the day was that between Satterfield of Yeatman and Epstein of Soldan, the former being returned the winner, 12—10 and 6—2. In the other Soldan-Yeatman matches the West Enders were victors, Fennell defeating Niemoeller, 6—3, 6—4, and Schiele defeating Thursby, 1—6, 6—2, 6—4. In the doubles Hodge and Ogles-by won from Sinz and Minnigerode, 4—6, 7—5, 6—4.

The McKinley-Central clashes resulted as follows: H. Hewitt, Central, defeated Cheney, McKinley, 7—5, 6—2; Altenbernd, McKinley, won from Weidlich, Central, 6—2, 3—6, 6—4; Brown, McKinley, trimmed A. Hewitt, Central, 6—2, 6—0. Henderson and Hebert of the South Side school defeated Mendez and Wier in the doubles, 6—3, 6—0. The next matches in the tourney will be played on Thursday.

WRAY'S COLUMN

They're Deader Than Rameses II, Bo.

THE Baseball Prophet has gone to join the plesiosaurus, the iguanodon, the Great Auk and the free silver issue. That is to say, he is a dead bird—practically extinct.

Time was when the picking was good, and everyone was doing it. But not since the days when Hughey Fullerton named Fielder Jones' White Sox to beat the Cubs—after the series was over, be it understood—has the baseball picking netted anything but lemons.

All the critics are "off" making forecasts today.

• • •

And this is passing strange because, on the whole, teams have performed fairly close to the ante-season dope.

The exceptions and variations from the expected, however, while not affecting the outcome of the races, have made a deep impression.

The astonishing performance of the New York Giants, the surprising dash of the St. Louis Browns and the shocking violation of the expected when Cleveland threatened, for a time, to win the flag, are a few instances that stand out.

But whenever a critic thought he had hit upon a sure thing, disasters began to happen to his horoscopes.

Barry's Loss Did Not Hurt.

FOR example, when the Boston Red Sox lost Barry, the roar went up that the Sox were through. Detroit players were already looking over late model machines on which to lavish their world's series bonuses.

But although Barry is not yet back in the game, and although George Foster and Gardner, teammates of Barry, also were under the weather during the critical time, the Red Sox went right on and clinched the flag.

• • •

Red Sox Popular Choices.

THESE little things are discouraging the critics from coming out and saying that the world's championship series is as good as settled before it is played. It is probably the belief of nine-tenths of the close followers of baseball in the country that Boston will wipe up Braves' Field, and Ebbets' lot, too, if the Dodgers win the pennant.

But, hark from the tombs! Scarcely a chirp out of the critics, who have now entered the prehistoric stage, along with the pterodactyl and the Cardinals' pennant hopes.

• • •

Aha! Here We Have It!

THERE are two lone and moulting survivors of the "picking" cult, but they are not pure specimens. There's Hughey Fullerton who, aided by an adding machine, is trying to lay the blame on figures. Then there's the man behind Christy Mathewson, who makes him come forth with a conditional prediction, while holding a string to it, ready to snatch it back, when anybody reaches out to take it in.

Christy's words are to the effect that if the Robins don't win, the Red Sox ought to. He says, in substance:

"I want to go on record as saying that Brooklyn has a fifty-fifty chance with the Red Sox in the world's series, if they should be the finalists."

He points out that the Robins either burn up the neighborhood or run like a sick hound; which may be construed as substantiating or knocking his assertion about 50—50, just as you want to take it.

1916 Red Sox Appear Weaker.

EXPRESSIONS now heard in this city are unfavorable to Brooklyn's representing the National League, as compared to either the Phils or the Braves. The lack of steadiness in the Dodgers' make-up seems to have left an unfavorable impression.

But if Marquard and Coombs can come through with pitching such as they have shown recently, we can see where even the Robins might not be not be totally disgraced.

Barry is not expected to be in the series games; Foster is still not at his best. The world's champions have lost the club's greatest attacking asset—Speaker—since they beat the Phils for the title last season.

Yet the team's steadiness, airtight defense and gameness in the pinch have imparted to baseball followers a universal feeling that whatever National League club wins, it will go into the big battles with the odds against them.

It's a Remarkable Club.

CARRIGAN, who not so long ago was not reckoned much of a manager and of whom, last year, it was said that he would not remain the club's leader whether he won the world's title or not, is a resourceful man, seemingly.

This belief is founded on the team's splendid stand in the face of losses. Speaker must have meant at least 10 victories to his club—wins which no substitute hitter or fielder could have accounted for. Many thought the Red Sox were wrecked when the great player and the present league leader passed on to Cleveland. But Boston has played with the selfsame airtightness and smoothness as of old.

Dutch Leonard, too, hasn't been as effective as expected. But when Carrigan goes behind the bat, Dutch immediately pitches no-hit ball.

Misfortunes accumulated against the team and during the crises of the race. And that Carrigan steered it through is almost as remarkable a feat as that of John McGraw, who in mid-season broke up a club that won 17 straight and molded another that won 26 in a row.

• • •

In fact, the 1916 Miracle Man honors seem about equally divided between Carrigan and the "little Napoleon" (used under the authority of Baseball Writers' License No. 18674.)

As a matter of fact, Carrigan's club SEEMS no weaker than last year, although it has suffered losses in hitting, pitching and brains departments.

It is considered to be the BIG MACHINE in a faster league than the National.

And this is as close as we care to go to pulling a comeback from the prehistoric Clairvoyant times.

MISS ANN LIONBERGER AGAIN CITY CHAMPION

Her Victory Over Miss Arnstein Clinches St. Louis Tennis Title.

Miss Ann Lionberger, the 1915 women's city tennis champion, again captured the honor yesterday when she defeated Miss Natalie Arnstein in the finals on the Triple A courts in Forest Park, 6—2, 2—6, 8—6. Yesterday's victory gives Miss Lionberger two legs on the George Prendergast cup, which was put into competition last year.

The doubles championship will be decided this afternoon with Mrs. Sullivan and Miss Scullin opposing the Misses Ann and Ruth Lionberger. The former pair worked their way into the finals by beating Miss Trendley and Miss Martin yesterday, 6—2, 6—3, while the Misses Lionberger won from Miss Hall and Miss Treat, 6—0, 6—2.

The finals in consolation singles and the semifinals in doubles also will be played today. Miss Trendley meets Miss Capstick in the singles.

KIDD FAILS TO QUALIFY FOR N. Y. "PRO" TOURNEY

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 3.—Willie Kidd, Professional at the Algonquin Club, St. Louis, was just four strokes below the required score to go to the Professional Golfers' Association of America meet, which is to be held on the course of the Sewamony Golf Club at Mount Vernon, N. Y., Oct. 10.

His 156, made on the Country Club course, yesterday, was pretty good golf, but a few bad holes put the St. Louis man out of the running. Fred Clarkson of Kansas City and William Brown of Springfield, Mo., qualified to represent the central section in the big event. Kidd's card follows:

In the first game Ryan and Herman were the battery for the American Steel and Neusel and Robertson for East St. Louis Giants, Ryan allowing 9 hits and Neusel 3 hits. In the second game Hildebrand and Fitzmeyer were the opposing pitchers with the same catchers as in the first game, Hildebrand allowing 1 hit and Fitzmeyer 3 hits.

Carrigan Has Only Six of the 1912 Champions, in Service This Season

Cady, Lewis, Hooper, Henriksen, Gardner and Manager Bill Are Survivors of Last World's Championship Machine.

JUST six of the players who helped win the 1912 world's series for the Red Sox from the Giants will be in the coming games with the National League flag winners. The tossers are Manager Carrigan, Catcher Cady, Outfielders Lewis, Hooper and Henriksen and Third Baseman Gardner. Heinie Wagner, the 1912 shortstop for the club, also is with the team, but is not playing, acting only in the capacity of coach.

All the other players have passed along. Jake Stahl, then manager of the team, is in business in Chicago. Steve Yerkes, second-sacker, is again with the Chicago Cubs, after a hurdle to the Feds and a term in the minors; Tris Speaker is with the Indians. None of the pitchers, and they included Joe Wood, Hugh Bedient, Charley Hall, Buck O'Brien and Ray Collins are now with the team.

Hooper Was Biggest Star.

Of the six players still with the outfit, Harry Hooper made the best showing against the Giants. He had a swat mark of .290, Gardner batted .179, Lewis .156, Cady .136 and Carrigan .000. Henriksen was used only as a substitute. Speaker was the batting hero for the Red Sox in 1912 with a .300 average.

Speaker and probably Barry, who is out with an injured hand, will be the only two of the 1915 world's series stars missing from the Red Sox. The same pitchers, Foster, Shore, Ruth and Leonard, are again with the club. New players who will get a chance to break in are Walker, Walsh, Shorten and McNally.

Eddie Plank Won One.

In all the world's series staged to date under the auspices of the National Commission, only once has every game been decided via the shutout route. That was in 1905, when the Giants battled the Athletics. The Giants won the first game, 3—0, the Athletics the second, 3—0 and the Giants the next three by counts of 9—0, 1—0 and 2—0. Christy Mathewson, now manager of the Reds, hurled three of the shutout victories for the Giants. Eddie Plank, the Brown southpaw, won the lone contest for the American Leaguers.

Only twice in the 11 series for baseball's leading honors has the club landing the first battle been the loser. This happened the first time in 1911, when the Giants trimmed the Athletics, 2—1, in the opening game and then lost, and last season, when the Phillies defeated the Red Sox, 3—1, in the inaugural and then dropped four straight, all by one-run margins, the scores being, 2—1, 2—1, 2—1, and 5—4, respectively.

Bill Carrigan trotted out a lot of his second string men against the Athletics yesterday and won, 4—2. Ernie Shore retired in favor of Jones after pitching five frames; Hooper and Walsh played right; Shorten and Walker, center; Hobby and Gainer, first; Lewis and Henricksen, left; Gardner and McNally, third, and Scott and Wagner, short. Carrigan intends to keep up this schedule of working his men in the remaining battles.

"HAPPY" HOWARD vs. "Young" Griffo, 6 rounds at 116 pounds—Howard the winner by a knockout in the first round.

By Harry S. Sharpe,
Referee for the Future City A. C.

After receiving a deep gash over his left eye in the eighth round of last night's Future City main event, Lonnie Tucker of Ardmore, Ok., went to his corner and counseled with his sister, Miss Elizabeth Tucker. The young lady called me to her side and conceded defeat, giving the victory to "Battling" Reddy of New York City.

Miss Tucker explained that she wanted to take no chances of impairing her brother's eyesight, and considered the wound too dangerous to permit him to continue. She had her way, though, in justice to young Tucker, it must be said that he objected strenuously to the bout being forfeited and wanted to continue.

Miss Tucker tried to make her reasons known to the crowd, but in the disorder that prevailed it is doubtful if she was heard by a dozen persons. The crowd last night was no respecter of sex, and the remarks hurled at Miss Tucker were about the same that usually greet an unfortunate loser and his manager.

Bout Proved Rough Fight.

So far as concerns the bout itself, perhaps the less said the better, for if all the disagreeable truth were told about it, it would furnish good argument for putting a stop to boxing in St. Louis. It was not boxing at all, but a fight, and a rough one at that, in which clinching, holding, hitting while holding and laying on played a prominent part.

The rules in this particular were deliberately and flagrantly abused. Neither boxer made the slightest pretense to observe the instructions they agreed to before the bout was started.

Crowd Displeased at Reddy.

Reddy made himself unpopular with the crowd in the very first round, and from that time on the little sympathy manifested was for Tucker. At the end of the first round I went to Reddy's corner and advised him to step back out of the clinches and to cease hitting while holding. That started an argument, and Manager Montieth said he didn't want any "grandstand stuff" pulled on him.

In what proved to be the last round, the eighth, Reddy was forced against the ropes on the east side of the ring. Suddenly he stepped aside and swung Tucker around, with the result that the latter went tumbling through the ropes to the floor. He was assisted to the platform and into the ring and declared that he had not been injured and was ready to go on. Then he and Reddy went to it in good old-fashioned style and in the melee their heads crashed together and Tucker received the cut over the eye that put an end to the bout.

It was one of the most disagreeable settos it was my misfortune to referee, and the crowd of about 400 persons seemed pretty thoroughly disgusted at its conclusion.

Tucker Made the Match.

It appears that Tucker took matters into his own hands and made the match without consulting his sister, who is supposed to supervise all ring affairs for her brothers.

Miss Tucker declares that she did not know of the match until last Saturday night while in Oklahoma City, Ok., and she hurried from there to St. Louis, arriving here Sunday afternoon. She says she then tried to have the match called off or postponed, but was persuaded, much against her wishes, to let it go on.

There were three preliminary bouts last night, and a four-round one between "Happy" Howard and Pete Macklin was the best of the lot. It was won by Howard. Prior to this bout Howard had knocked out "Young" Griffo with a punch to the stomach in the first round.

An eight-round bout which took place between "Young" Leach Cross and "Young" Lundy was a burlesque. The latter was merely a punching bag that Cross could have pounded a great deal harder had he been of a mind to, but Leach contented himself with a lot of light tapping that permitted Lundy to last the limit.

COLLEGES TO AGAIN PLAY FOR RICE CHESS TROPHY

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The international collegiate chess trophy, which has remained idle at Princeton for six years, has again been placed in competition.

Under provision of the deed by which the trophy was given by the late Prof. Isaac L. Rice, as the trophy was not played for in over five years, control of it reverts to the estate. Mrs. Rice, the widow, has given her consent that it be played for by representatives of clubs in the United States and Canada, to be divided into sections according to their geographical location. In the 16 intercollegiate matches the trophy had been won four times by America, three times by Great Britain and three of the mates had been drawn.

Sox Play Cubs Tomorrow.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Final arrangements were being made today for the opening battle of the Chicago city series between the American and National teams scheduled for tomorrow. The ticket sale began today. President Barrow of the International League who was named official representative of the National Commission under whose supervision the series is to be conducted, was expected to arrive here today.

Secret Practice at Kansas.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 3.—Secret practices have been inaugurated by Coach Olcott of the University of Kansas football squad in preparation for the clash with Illinois Saturday at Urbana, Ill. Inability of school authorities to secure reduced rates from the railroads has caused a canceling of the proposed special train of student rooters to accompany the team, it was announced.

Last Night's Fights

Philadelphia — Kid Williams shaded Benny Kaufman, six rounds.

New Orleans—Joe Thomas had much the better of Frankie Russell in 20 rounds and when Referee Hubert O'Brien called it a draw, Thomas belted him in the chin. Walter Rogers shaded Battling Harris, 10 rounds.

Schenectady, N. Y.—Jack Britton bested Jimmy Coffey (the lightweight) in 10 rounds.

SPORT SALAD

The Revue.

THE Robins are singing
As up they go winging
And leave Pat Moran in the lurch;
It's always fair weather
When birds of a feather
Can roost on the very top perch.

The Phillies feel rocky,
The Robins are cocky
And happy as if it were spring;
They sent a defiance
To John and his Giants
And threw their chapeaus in the ring.

The Giants were willing
And thought that a killing
Was coming to Robinson's crew;
But John and his heroes
Made nothing but zeroes
While Robby was gathering two.

Jack Coombs, the old stager,
Was Robbie's best wager,
And well did he handle the job;
With infinite cunning
Old "Colby" went gunning
For Johnny McGraw and his mob.

The Robins are tripping
Along without slipping
And hope for no further defeats;
On top they are roosting
While Ebbets is boosting
The prices for world's series seats.

• • •

Half a Loaf.

THE summer of our discontent
Is very nearly over;
And it is very evident
Our boys are not in clover.
Before the Browns went on the blink
Of flags we had a vision;
But now we'll all be tickled pink
If they're in first division.

• • •

Quite So.

Yes, indeed, a half a loaf is better than no vacation.

• • •

The pennant being cinched, Connie Mack will ease up for the remaining few games and give his charges a gentle workout for next spring.

• • •

The Dodgers again duplicated their last Saturday's feat of going from first to second place and back again to first in the same day. Those Robins are game birds anyway.

• • •

Too Bad.

THE Veiled Prophet told us this morning that inasmuch as the National League hadn't settled upon their candidate for the world's series, he would refrain from announcing the winner of the event while passing the intersection of Grand and Olive in accordance with his usual custom. It wouldn't be fair to either Brooklyn or Philadelphia to do so.

• • •

See where the Rumanians are waltzing over the blue Danube into Bulgaria. Tra, la, la, la, la, oom-pah, oom-pah!

• • •

We understands that some of the rooters who bet on the Browns winning the pennant are going to organize a Yesdamit club.

• • •

Field Marshal von Hindenburg celebrated his sixty-ninth birthday yesterday. The old "Bulldog" cracked a few English walnuts with his teeth and had a good time generally.

• • •

Like Old Times.

Judging by the way "Colby" Jack Coombs pitched yesterday, that old familiar whiff of the world's series melon must have floated his way.

• • •

The Senators allowed the Yanks to tie the Browns for fourth place yesterday Griff is no friend of ourn.

• • •

Why Not?

In case the Dodgers win the pennant would suggest that they play their home games at the Polo Grounds, where the seats are narrower, but more plentiful.

• • •

Willie Hoppe, the champion billiard shooter of the world, checked in yesterday. Willie hasn't been doing much lately, but on Oct. 30 he will resume his regular occupation of beating George Sutton for the 18.2 championship.

• • •

Sutton has been an interested spectator at many a match between himself and Hoppe and has become very familiar with the champion's style of play.

• • •

The Browns and Cards are taking daily workouts for the fall series which begins tomorrow. There are a few choice ringside seats left.

• • •

The Veiled Prophet told us that if the Browns didn't win he looked for the Cards to come in with the bacon.

WORLD'S SERIES OPENS AT BOSTON ON OCT. 7

Braves' Field Loaned by National League to Red Sox for the Occasion.

Jack Barry Will Play in Series, if Janvrin "Blows"; Hand Healing

JACK BARRY will break into a world's series box score if Harold Janvrin "blows," but not otherwise. The far-famed keystone king of the world's champions, who has been nursing a broken hand since he was beaned by Dave Davenport of the Browns on Aug. 28, is daily in uniform, but unable to swing a bat with much vigor.

However, he will be Carrigan's first assistant strategist and his hand is healing so speedily that he will be shunted into the game if Janvrin shows an inclination to weaken the Boston defense.

Barry will play in at least one game to establish a record. Including the impending clash with the National League winner, Barry has participated in six world's series, a mark never equaled before. Prior to this season he shared with Evers the honor of having played in five. Already he has won $14,685.55 out of these post-season classics.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—At a meeting of the National Commission here today it was decided to play the first game of the world's series on Saturday, Oct. 7, at the National League club's field at Boston.

The second game will also be played on the Boston field Monday, Oct. 9; the third and fourth games will be played in Brooklyn or Philadelphia, according to which club wins the National League race, on Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 10 and 11.

If the series goes beyond four games, the fifth will be played in Boston, Thursday, Oct. 12; the sixth in Philadelphia or Brooklyn, Friday, Oct. 13, and the place for playing the seventh will be decided by the toss of a coin.

In case of a tie game or a postponement, the clubs will remain in the city until such game is played off. The umpires for the series will not be announced until after the pennant winner in the National League is decided.

FORMER CHAMPION IS OUT OF TITLE EVENT

Mrs. J. V. Hurd, Formerly Triple Title Holder, Loses to Mrs. Thomas.

BELMONT, Mass., Oct. 3.—Mrs. J. V. Hurd of Pittsburg, who as Miss Dorothy Campbell, was the holder of American, British and Canadian golf championships, was eliminated from the woman's national championship on the links of the Belmont Spring Country Club in the first round of match play, today, by Mrs. Thomas Hucknall of Forest Hills. The score was 2 up.

Kinsey Club Is Beaten by Memphis in Final Intercity Baseball Tilt

St. Louis' municipal baseball champions, the Kinsey Club lost the odd tilt of the intercity series with the Illinois Centrals of Memphis, dropping the third and final contest in Memphis yesterday, 4—1. Long, the southpaw, who beat the Kinseys Sunday, 2—1, with seven hits came back yesterday and hurled even better ball.

Long held the St. Louis clubbers to three hits, all of them doubles. The lone marker scored off him came in the sixth inning as a result of Hurtig's double and a wild throw on Jones' grounder by Townsend. Long whiffed eight and did not pass a batter.

The Memphis crew got off to a running start in the first frame, when two runs resulted. Crawford reached first when Lewis dropped the third strike, went to third on Cissell's single and counted with the latter on Jones' wild heave. Another was tallied in the sixth. McHenry's error helping, while the final marker came in the eighth.

The Kinsey club and its followers are scheduled to arrive back home some time today.

SPECULATION IN WALL ST. SHOWS UNCERTAIN TONE

Early Market Is Lower, but a Rally Marks Trading at the Close.

Northern Pacific Shows Big Gain in Earnings.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Enormous gains in gross and net earnings are shown in the annual report of the Northern Pacific Railway Co., issued today. Total operating revenue of $75,939,231, is an increase of $12,767,578. Net income after taxes of $30,498,190 is an increase of $8,904,156. Total income of $38,972,448, increased $6,940,995 and surplus after charges of $25,729,874 represents an increase of $6,907,633. This last item is equal to 14.7 per cent earned on stock, against 7.58 per cen the previous year. The report was made public at the annual meeting of the stockholders today, at which Crawford Livingston, a St. Paul capitalist, was elected a director to succeed the late William H. Clough, who was chairman of the board. Other retiring directors were soon to elect a new chairman.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Notwithstanding that volume of business was again maintained around the 'million-share level,' today's market was for the most part one of the traditional 'great cry and little wool. During the earlier hours, the tendency was rather plainly downward, declines of one to two points in the industrial shares being numerous. After the fashion which has grown familiar since the general rise in prices culminated, single stocks were bid up suddenly and rapidly, thereby checking the reaction elsewhere.

"This process, as is usual, was more actively pursued in the final hour, when the steel shares and some of the railways rose sharply. In the end, the market closed strong, but with very irregular changes and with a pretty strong professional aroma, surrounding the operations of the day.

"The statement, given out in the afternoon, regarding the Midvale Steel's remarkable large earnings was no particular surprise, in view of the present obvious culmination of the war order contracts; but it had its due effect on Wall street.

"The figures of New York City's export trade last month, breaking all records, not in its total, but in the daily average, attracted comment. The aggregate of $288,900,000 compares with $163,600,000 for the same month a year ago, and with $61,800,000 in September, 1914.

German Exchange Lower.

"Exchange on Berlin declined rather sharply, touching a rate ¾c below yesterday, and a full cent under that of a week ago, although still more than a cent above the low rate of wartime, 58¾c, as quoted on Sept. 6. Today's weakness was in some respects more striking because cable dispatches from Berlin asserted that the new German war loan, for which subscriptions close next Thursday, is a complete success. According to these dispatches, the amount subscribed already exceeds the $2,550,000,000 of the last German war loan issued on the sixteenth of last March.

"This is an interesting announcement, in view of the perfectly frank avowal, in the contemporaneous press of German newspapers and public men, that applications by the German public were falling far short of expectations. Even today's cables hint at that result. If the statement as to total subscription is correct, the necessary inference will be that large capitalists and institutions were summarily called upon at the last moment to take up the desired aggregate of subscriptions.

"This was true to a certain extent of the last large English war loan, when two great London banks took the unallotted balance on the last day of subscription. Judgment pending German operation will depend on the character of the eleventh-hour subscribers. It has at no time been easy to understand how German savings banks—whose new deposits were far from equaling the sum of their subscriptions, and which have no market on which they can sell their ow nsecurities in order to raise cash for war loan subscriptions—have been able, in line with ordinary investment practice to play the part which seems to have been theirs.

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S TRADING IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Minor changes, mainly upward, prevailed at today's moderate opening, trading however, embracing more than the usual number of issues. The more striking excursions included American Locomotive, which rose 2 points with advances of 1 to 2 in other equipments and industrials including Crucible Steel, Electric, Industrial Alcohol and International Paper. Marines were slightly lower, but the railway list gained fractions to over a point under the lead of Pacifics and Northwestern issues. A firmer tendency was shown in all quarters before the end of the first half hour.

Industrials, equipments and motors, together with sugars and gas shares were conspicuous in the mixed dealings of the forenoon, certain speculative favorites again reflecting bearish opposition. Steel yielded over a point, Marines 1 to 1¼ and Baldwin, Studebaker, Republic Steel and some of the metals as much. General Motors made a new record on its 9-point advance to 750 and secondary specialties were materially high ers with Pittsburg Coal and International Nickel. Rails were steadier than other standard stocks, the Canadian group extending initial advances. Increased selling caused fresh irregularity at midday. Bonds were firm.

Grangers and cotton carriers among the rails and numerous minor industrials all at advances, featured the reduced dealings of the early afternoon. Steel and other favorites also hardened with an increased demand for Nickel.

USE OF COTTON FIBRE IS HEAVIER THAN LAST YEAR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Use of cotton fiber in the manufacture of explosives made a striking increase during the first half of this year. Considerably more was used up to June 30 than during all of 1915, the Census Bureau announced today in its first report giving statistics called for by the new law requiring quarterly reports of raw and prepared cotton and linters, cotton waste and hull fiber consumed in the manufacture of gun cotton and explosives of all kinds.

After a careful canvas the Census Bureau, compiled returns from 178 establishments, which showed that 244,003 bales, equivalent 500-pound bales of unbleached cotton fibre, were used during last year, 144,988 bales during the quarter ending March 31, 1916, and 142,772 bales during the quarter ending June 30, 1916.

Prepared cotton held by manufacturers of explosives at the end of last year amounted to 30,483 bales, equivalent 500-bales at the end of March, 18,933 bales, and at the end of June 22,895 bales.

It is disclosed by the reports to the bureau that the loss in bleaching cotton for nitrating purposes varied considerably, but was between 30 and 40 per cent. Based on an average loss of 35 per cent, the gross weight of cotton fibre used in explosives manufacture was 375,000 bales, equivalent 500-pound bales last year, 223,000 bales for the first quarter this year and 220,000 bales for the second quarter. While a few explosive manufacturers were found to bleach all or a part of the cotton fiber used by them, it appeared to be the general practice to purchase the fiber already prepared, so the statistics were prepared on that basis.

COTTON IS WEAKER IN THE NEW YORK SPECULATION

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The cotton market was much less active today, and fluctuations were rather irregular after the excited advance of yesterday. Private cables reported no feature of importance in the Liverpool market and prices there were about as due, while the local market opened barely steady at an advance of 8 points to a decline of 3 points. There was further realizing by old longs and a little Southern selling, under which the active months worked about 6 to 10 points under last night's closing figures during the early trading. December declined to 16.60c, or 38 points under yesterday's high level, and January sold off to 16.66c, but offerings seemed to be pretty well taken around these figures and the market was steady toward the middle of the morning.

The early afternoon advance carried January contracts up to 16.94c and March to 17.11c, or about 17 to 23 points net higher, and approximately 30 points above the low level. There was realizing on a scale which held the advance in check around 2 o'clock, but prices ruled within 3 or 4 points of the best. The closing was irregular.

A rise of 5c in the Argentine market reported by cable today, following an upturn of 6c yesterday, gave strong bull color to drouth damage reports from that country, and local wheat quotations averaged over 2c higher in the late speculation. Professionals favored the buying side almost to a man, and as offers were light values mounted easily. All options scored new high records on the crop. Statistical news was slightly bearish, but was ignored by the trade. The market closed firm, but under the high point of the day.

The Liverpool wheat market opened firm, with unfavorable reports from Argentine and later became strong, with scarcity of Manitoba offers. Spot market was 2½d to 3½d higher, with a broadening demand at advancing prices and with offers light. Cargo market was strong; winters, 1s and Manitobas 1s 3d higher. Plates, Australians and Indians firmly held and above an export parity. Russian rains damaging crop and Argentine and French reports unfavorable. Corn firm, with lighter arrivals and better demand for spot. Spot market unchanged to ½d higher; parcel market firm, 3d to 6d higher. Plate holders are very firm.

Corn futures gained a sharp fraction, with wheat, and on steady cables unchanged to ½d higher. Oats were firm, with corn.

Local wheat receipts were 154,800 bu, against 136,248 bu last year. Corn, 10,800 bu, against 68,400 bu. Oats, 54,400 bu, against 79,900 bu.

Total primary wheat receipts today were 1,667,000 bu, against 2,912,000 bu last year. Shipments, 1,025,000 bu, against 1,612,000 bu. Corn receipts, 648,000 bu, against 1,107,000 bu. Shipments, 638,000 bu, against 868,000 bu. Oats receipts, 1,315,000 bu, against 200,000 bu. Shipments, 873,000 bu, against 855,000 bu.

In the recent statistical English statements it was suggested that the surplus of new Argentine wheat this season might reach close to 100,000,000 bu. There are opinions expressed by local authorities at this time, however, that unless the drouth in the northern part of Argentine is relieved very soon, the exportable surplus of the present crop may not reach much over 75,000,000 bu.

New York reported Buenos Aires wheat 5c higher in the late trading.

A. O. Slaighter's Argentine cable said: "Crop reports from the provinces of Santa Fe, Cordoba and Entre Rios continue discouraging. The crop area, in these three provinces comprise virtually one-half of total Argentine wheat acreage.

Bradstreet showed world's wheat supplies increased 7,171,000 bu last week; corn increased 611,000 bu; oats increased 2,251,000 bu.

Northwest cars:

	Today.	Last Wk.	Last Yr.

Duluth	335	310	506
Winnipeg	1,027	786	1,703
Totals	1,832	1,524	2,580

Minneapolis stocks of wheat increased 225,000 bu for three days.

European visible supply of wheat is 73,300,000 bu; last week 69,504,000 bu; last year not given.

Clearances of wheat today were 698,000 bu; flour, 11,000 bbls; wheat and flour, 748,000 bu; corn, 171,000 bu; oats, 396,000 bu (Galveston missing).

B. W. Snow's Oct. 1 report makes condition of corn 69.3, against 68.7 on Sept. 1, and an indicated crop at this date of 2,535,000,000 bu, or 21,000,000 bu more than was similarly indicated a month ago. Killing frost was experienced Sept. 1 to 18, and considerable damage was suffered in Northern Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan, but the crop in Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota and Wisconsin was fairly well matured and damage light. Over the greater part of the belt the frost was not regarded as affecting the grain, and the fine weather since prevailing has served to rapidly condition the crop, and it is these considerations that lead agents in the aggregate to advance their crop ideas despite frost experience. On the basis of the Government estimate of acreage the present returns would indicate a crop of 2,629,000,000 bu. Final estimate of winter wheat, 453,000,000 bu, and of spring 150,000,000 bu, total crop 603,000,000 bu, with quality of spring wheat very low, which further reduces the usability of the crop. Final estimate oats, 1,157,000,000 bu, against 1,507,000,000 bu last year. On the basis of the Government acreage the crop would aggregate about 1,200,000,000 bu.

New York reported: Export orders for wheat were in the market in considerable volume based on prices around the close yesterday. Some business was done, however, with sales on overnight acceptances placed at about 400,000

Fifty-Fifty.

MY son," said the father impressively. "You are leading an absolutely useless life. For the last 10 years you have done nothing but squander time and money."

"That's all right, dad," replied the unrepentant youth. "It isn't as if I was asking you to bear the whole burden. You just furnish the money and I'll try to find the time."

The Last Straw.

I NEVER see you and Jim Johnson together any more. You used to be almost inseparable."

"I know, but I got tired of him. He was always giving me advice."

"What of that? You didn't have to take his advice, did you?"

"Of course not, but whenever I didn't take it it always turned out that I would have been better off if I had."

Good Listener.

DID young Spender listen to you at all when you spoke to him about the bill he owes us?"

"Oh, yes; he paid close attention."

TRAIN up a boy the way he should go and likely as not he'll be arrested for speeding.

Up-to-Date Home.

I SAW the loveliest apartment today," exclaimed Mrs. Nomad.

"Has it got all the modern improvements?" inquired her husband.

"Yes, indeed. Why, there's even a soundproof detention pen in the basement to keep the children in."

The Minimum.

THERE are two sides to every argument."

"Two sides represent the minimum. Some arguments sound as if there were as many sides as there are speakers."—Washington Star.

Overestimated.

TOM BIGBY seems to have unbounded confidence in himself."

"Yes, but I fear he's not worthy of it."

Don't Ever Let Anyone Tell You This as a New One

IRISHMAN (in drug store): Oi want a hunk av soap.

Strategy.

HAVE you any fresh eggs today?"

"Yes, ma'am. I have some very choice ones, and the price is very low."

"But these eggs are marked 'Cold Storage.'"

"Yes, ma'am. I always mark 'em that way, so my competitors won't find out that I am selling fresh eggs so cheap."

Engaging Topic.

THE commuters out my way drew up a petition protesting against the inadequate train service."

"Did it do any good?"

"Well, it gave us something to talk about during the hours we have to spend traveling."

Unreasonable.

WHY didn't you arbitrate your troubles with Binks?"

"I was perfectly willing to, but the lobster wouldn't let me choose the arbitrators."

IF the nations of the globe would agree that in case of war the winners pay the pensions, war would cease instanter.

A Busy Night.

UNCLE HIRAM was visiting his nephew and niece in their city apartment.

"This is a right smart place you've got here," he remarked.

"Yes," replied his niece. "We have 10 rooms and three baths."

"That's an awful lot of bathrooms," said Uncle Hiram. "Still, I reckon they come in pretty handy on a Saturday night."

Self-Made.

IT is Jenkins's boast that he is a self-made man."

"I thought so."

"Why do you say that?"

"He lacks finish."

The Gambler.

I HEAR Ned Nedson is to be married next week to a Miss Blank."

"Poor Ned! He never did have any luck."

"What do you mean?"

"Why, even in the matrimonial lottery it seems the best he can do is to draw a Blank."

Fruit of the Tree.

HAS he a family tree?"

"Oh, yes."

"What it it?"

"Well, it's of the nut-bearing family."

Some Doubt About It.

A MAN learned of the death of an uncle in a distant state and employed an attorney to get for him his share of the estate. After much delay the lawyer sent for his client and said: "I have collected your share of your uncle's property, and here is a statement of our account."

The account rendered showed many items of expense, such as "Taking depositions," "Notary's fees," "Court costs," "Traveling expenses," etc., a considerable charge in favor of the attorney for his services, and only a small balance for the nephew. After examining and pondering over the statement for quite a while, the client looked up and said to the lawyer: "Was that your uncle or mine that died?"

The Child's View.
